LIMA BUSINESS FIRMS STAND 'TEST OF TIME'

HISTORY OF GROWTH AND STABILITY OF CONCERNS 20 YEARS OLD AND OVER

(BY EARL J. FISHER)

In the growth of Lima no others have played a greater role than the retail merchants who have been in business 20 or more years.

These men saw the beginning of the era which marked the real start in Lima business life. Like other great achievements, the start was made in a humble way and nobody would have predicted 20 years ago that it would reach the high peak in this, the 22nd year of the 20th century.

N. L. Michael is known as the oldest merchant in Lima in point of service. His identification with business here dates back as far as 1878, the year he moved to the city. This coming fall the Michael Clothing company will celebrate the 40th anniversary of the location in the same building. The claim for Mr. Michael of being the oldest merchant in service is based on his continuity in the same business.

OLDEST STORE IN LIMA
The Gooding Shoe Co. is referred to as the oldest store in Lima. It was established in November, 1881, by E. V. Gooding, and will this fall complete its 41st year. Reference to Gooding's as the oldest store in the city is made because it has been more years in the same location and also that the management has remained in the Gooding family.

Prince, will in March complete his 34th year in business, as the tale of his career in this section relates.

The 35th year of the Feldman & Co. dry goods store will be attained May 7, 1922. Morris Bros., clothing, began in business 22 years ago last October. The Harry Thomas grocery originated 44 years ago, and had there not been several changes in the personnel or its management and location, it might easily lay claim to being the oldest store.

Dorsey's grocery dates back in history farther than the other stores which have operated 20 or more years, John Wheeler having started it in 1865, but it changed hands twice and has been owned by E. H. Dorsey since last year.

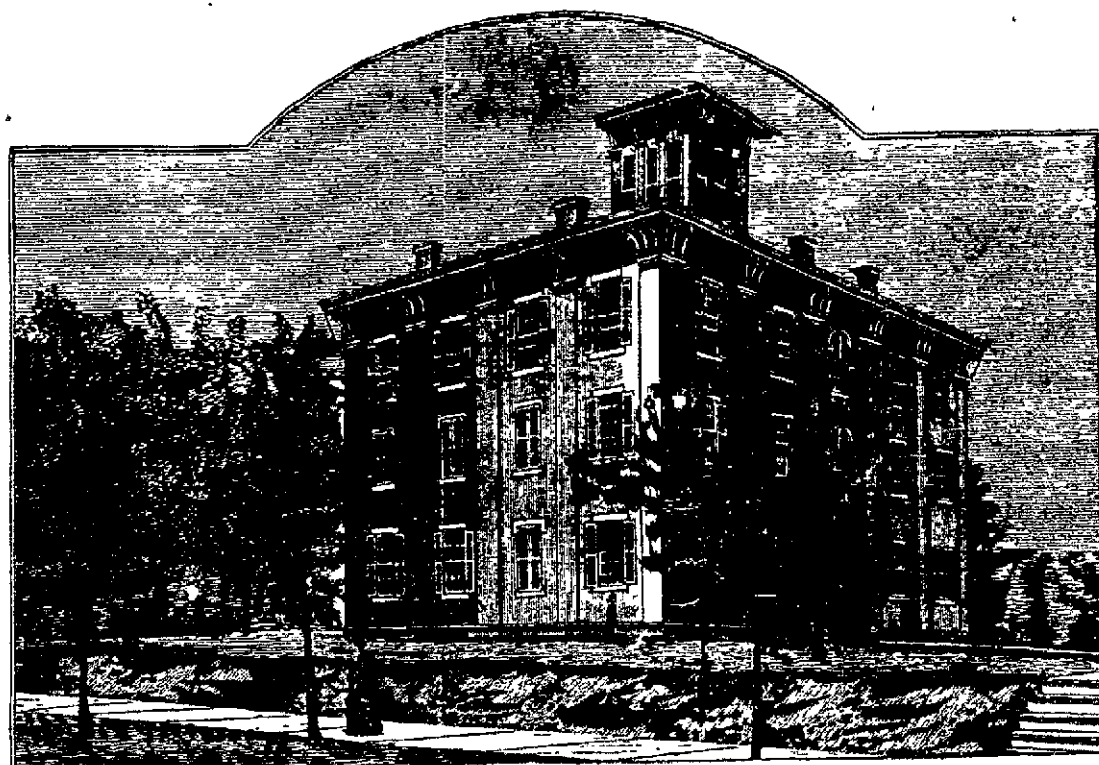

In February R. T. Gregg, another pioneer in mercantile trade here, will complete his 21st year in the same location. The length of his connection in business covers 35 years, three-fifths of which have been spent in Lima.

B. S. Porter first began in the retail trade here in 1877, 45 years ago. There have been only a few changes since, one when the firm became Porter & Davis, another when J. E. Porter entered the business and the last with the incorporation of the store January 1, 1922.

F. E. Herman's first plunge in the retail game occurred January 1, 1886, when he bought an interest in the J. R. Hughes store. By 1894

THE OLD WEST SCHOOL

here is where the older residents attended school in their youth. It was the first substantial school building built in Lima and stood where Central High is now.

he was in the furniture business independently.

The Lima Home Savings association was incorporated September 26, 1887, 35 years ago the coming September. J. W. Rowlands opened his furniture store 29 years ago. Basinger's Jewelry store has been in business slightly more than 20 years. Summers & Gilles, Lima's oldest established firm of merchant tailors, reached the one score mark individually, and the partnership will soon observe its 20th birthday. It was more than 40 years ago when R. M. Hughes started in the jewelry business and except for short periods when he was employed by others, he has been an owner. T. B. Carroll's entrance into the dry goods retail trade occurred 33 years ago. Owen Bros. motor house manufacturers and automobile renovators, injected new life into business here by moving from Kenton in 1898 and 1902. Jacob P. Renz is in the 35th year as a baker.

There is much of romance in the careers of the city's big retail business men. They are self-made men and their own inherent business qualities for hard work enabled them to rise from the then small town, which, if historical reports are true, was no more permanently established than the shifting sands of the desert, only in the case of Lima the substance was mud instead of sand.

But not for long was that condition allowed to retard the growth of the city. Soon excavations were made for the foundations of mercantile establishments, upon the completion of which the merchants encircled in their new homes, defied the geological handicaps. It is a pertinent fact that they were the first to push in and with their success came paved streets, improved roads and other features of a successful community. After the conquering of the handicaps, underfoot, came the "conquest of the air." Today buildings of near-scraper size rear above the earlier structures. How well do Lima's early pioneer merchants know that Rome was not built in a day!

MUD WAS HANDICAP

The role played by mud was mentioned by almost all the business men interviewed on the subject of their start in business. They recall the beginning of businesses on mud streets, and F. E. Harman remembers the time when, as a mere boy, he and other lads "hopped" the drays driven by John Higgins, S. Central-av, and Isaac Overton, for a ride while the wheels sunk in mud to their hubs. The drays were one-horse and two-wheeled affairs and were the first in Lima. It was impossible to get away from home in the early part of the year and Main-st was impassable. Mr. Harman recalled with a smile. When Colonel I. T. Moore, a Lima man, rode the proposed route of the Pennsylvania railroad some 20 years or more before the Civil war, his worst impediment was mud. Incidentally the Colonel was one of the "pushers" for Lima.

Lima, the hub of northwestern

Ohio. Such is the picture brought to mind thru the city's great mercantile and industrial activities. The vision is not an idle dream, either, but a fact which has already assumed much concreteness and gives promise of more solidity as time passes.

Lima is fortunate today in being located on two steam railroads and two interurban lines. In addition to these facilities motor busses ply daily between the city and nearby towns, carrying people and freight to and fro. What a difference from 1862! There were only two railroads then, the Pennsylvania and the B. & O., in those days the D. & M. Mr. Harman recalls when he came here in 1869, the L. E. & W. was being pushed southward and was only completed to Fremont. Naturally, as was the fate of other early undertakings, the project had its pot names. The "tri-weekly" and the "Jerkwater" were favorites, our source of these notes recalls.

Curiously enough, the public square in the 60's did not present an appearance very much different from that of today. With the exception of the Lima House, the Sherwood building and possibly a few others, the buildings were as they appear now, it is related.

It does not require a far stretch of the imagination, nor a seance with the crystal gazer, to see the inevitable position Lima is bound to occupy in this section of Ohio, and anybody seeking confirmation needs but watch the growth of local business.

A trip to Lima's big stores will amply bear out the assertion. There is more than enough verification awaiting doubters in the magnificent homes of retail trade, retrospective views of which are found in this section of The Sunday News. There are many business houses which have been in business 20 years or more, and a few have doubled one score years in the service of Lima people and those of the vicinity.

JAZZ ON DECLINE, PORTER STATES

Old Established Music House Considered Authority

BUSINESS STARTED IN 1877

Son of Organizer, B. S. Porter, is Worthy Successor

Jazz music, according to information at the B. S. Porter and Son company music store, 143 S. Main-st., the oldest store of its kind in Lima, is dropping out slowly. It will not, however, go out of style with a crash, as did the late lamented Hawaiian music lovers of the peppy times are informed.

B. S. Porter started in the music business 45 years ago on S. Main-st. and since that time many new vogues in music have been ushered in, none of them, however, full of life as the jazz cult. The tendency to drop jazz may be attributed to several sources, the best of which is the fact that jazz has had its "run." It will be a long time before the peppy music falls out altogether, comes the assurance from the Porter store.

JAZZ ON THE DECLINE

Immortal works of Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Rubenstein, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Schumann and the other classical composers have been better patronized since jazz started on the decline.

It is a remarkable fact that the work of the famous Paul Whiteman and his Ambassador Orchestra has had much to do with the declining popularity of jazz. Whiteman and his instrumentalists believe in getting away from jazz, and as they are recognized top-notchers in the musical line, their opinions are looked up to. The Porter store handles all of the phonographic interpretations from the beautiful renditions of the Whiteman orchestra.

Development of the phonograph had much to do with popularizing jazz in the first blush of its career, and the same thing is now causing it to lose some of its early popularity. The selections from the great players, as well as jazz, have been faithfully reproduced on the phonograph. Music lovers were given the opportunity to take their pick. The division was pronounced, and now it would seem the old melody composers were one too many for the makers of the "light-as-air" music.

ESTABLISHED IN 1877

The store from which comes this dissertation on the idiosyncrasies of music was started in 1877 by B. S.

Porter. Later it was followed by Porter and Davis in the same S. Main-st. location. Mr. Davis dropped out of the business and J. E. Porter, son of the organizer, stepped in. The business was incorporated January 1, 1923, and is now known as the B. S. Porter Son company. It is intended that extensive improvements be made in the way of addition for more space for pianos and phonographs. The latter has somewhat revolutionized the music business, more room being necessary than before the "talking machines" began dispensing sweet strains. The store has occupied the same location for 30 years. The company is aggressive and anticipates a great future under the new management.

MASONIC TEMPLE STIRS MEMORY

Demolition of Historic Structure Brings Comment.

Food memories of Lima's retail merchants linger in the Wise block, more popularly known as the old Masonic Temple, corner of Main and High-sts. It was their first playground and was very much in demand until the Farrot Opera House was erected in 1882.

Finishing touches were still being made in 1869, and F. E. Harman, who came here in that year, remembers it was condemned almost from the outset. It was declared unsafe and great bolts were utilized to strengthen the walls. The structure refused to collapse, however. It is being dismantled now. The uninhabited cannot see anything wrong about its construction, but undoubtedly those familiar with the science of architecture know the reason why it was condemned in the 60's.

It was constructed for use as the City Hall, Mr. Harman's memoirs indicate. There were two storerooms in the lower part and the city fire department occupied the rear. The City Hall was on the second floor. After the completion of two stories the Masons "leased the air" and constructed a third story atop it.

The fine grill work and other fancy interior decorations, revealed as the wrecking bars bit off the top story the past week, is mute evidence of the pride the order took in its Temple in those days. All entertainments took place there.

J. R. Mowen, a local contractor and builder, constructed the edifice.

MARRIED AT CROUT HOUSE.

George Wilbur Harshman, 23, farmer, Shawnee-tp, and Miss Velma Lois Anderson, 18, Amanda-tp, secured a license to wed in probate court Saturday. They were married by Ernest M. Botkin, justice of the peace at the court house.

FOUR BROTHERS IN SAME FIRM

Morris Bros. Apply Golden Rule
In Business

ARE SUCCESSFUL MERCHANTS

Big Store Developed From Beginning in 1899

One generally thinks of only two when a business firm of brothers is mentioned, but in the case of Morris Bros., one of the old-established clothing and shoe stores in the city, there are four brothers, all actively engaged in carrying on the business of the big establishment at 217 N. Main-st.

J. E. and D. W. Morris founded the store, October 3, 1899, under its present name. The building was leased until 1904 from the Calvin S. Brice estate, and was known as the Melly block. The Messrs. Morris bought the building in 1904 and it is now known as the Morris block.

FOUR BROTHERS IN FIRM
After the establishment of a shoe department in 1913, the other two brothers of the family, S. T. and S. O. Morris, were called to conduct it, thus completing the quadruple organization.

At various times alterations have been made in the building. The store-room was made 18 feet deeper at the rear a number of years ago. Morris Bros. occupy the first floor, and there are six business rooms, opening on the alley to the north, known as the Morris Arcade, all of which are rented. The Central hotel occupies two floors of the building above the store. The Y. W. C. A. has headquarters on the second floor to the rear and the third floor is used for lodge purposes.

Morris Bros. do a general clothing and furnishing business. Before they occupied the block the Lima Clothing Co. held forth there.

Their business has been successful from the time it was started. The two pioneers of the Morris brothers engaged in business in October of 1899 with borrowed capital. Thru careful management the debts were liquidated by June of the year 1901, a matter of 21 months to pay off the obligations, which enabled them to launch one of the most successful business ventures in Lima.

GOLDEN RULE APPLIED

When asked concerning a motto for their store, D. W. Morris declared that "giving everybody a square deal and treating the buyers just as they would treat us"—the Golden Rule in effect—had laid the cornerstone of their success.

Mr. Morris' opinion concerning the loosening of the shackles that at present bind business is that there will be an awakening from the lethargy in spring, when people are able to get outdoors and secure outside employment. "We have passed thru the worst part of the depression; from now on conditions will tend to better themselves," Mr. Morris said.

HUGHES PIONEER LIMA JEWELER

Is Probably the Oldest in Business in This City

ACTIVE FOR 40 YEAR PERIOD

Hughes & Son Build Up a Splendid Patronage

R. M. Hughes, of the jewelry firm of Hughes & Son, is without doubt the oldest jeweler in Lima. His identification with the business covers a period of more than 40 years. Part of this time, however, was spent in the employ of others.

THE PRESENT FIRM

The present firm of Hughes & Son is the outgrowth of the old firm known as The Macdonald Jewelry Co. This firm was composed of R. M. Hughes, William E. Melville and R. D. Macdonald and was organized in 1901. Later Mr. Macdonald withdrew from the firm and established himself in part of the room now occupied by The Lima Trust Co. This store subsequently went out of business.

At this time H. H. Hughes, son of the pioneer in the business, took over the Macdonald interest. Later Mr. Melville died and his interest was assumed by Hughes & Son, under which name the firm has since continued.

They have established their business with a select clientele by handling only the best quality of merchandise. The wide acquaintance of the members of the firm has built up for them a business that ranks as one of the high class retail establishments of Lima.

MAINTAIN FINE STORE

The interior of the store and the stock are as fine as may be found in any city twice the size of Lima. They number among their patrons not only residents of Lima, but have built up a very select patronage from the community surrounding the city. Their reputation for square dealing is known far and wide and is one of the reasons why so much of their patronage comes from other localities.

"GRAND OLD MAN" OF RETAILERS

V. L. Michael Merits Distinction of Designation

STORE NOW IN 40TH YEAR

Proprietor: Engaged in Business in Lima 44 Years

Provided he does not object to a title that seemingly relegates him to the realm of old age, there can be no better name for the oldest Lima merchant in point of years of service than that of the "Grand Old Man of Retail Trade." He is V. L. Michael, directing genius of the Michael Clothing Co., 203 N. Main-st. The title is appropriate in view of Mr. Michael's long years in the retail game in Lima, and in no way does it cast reflection on mere years alone, for he still feels young. He is hovering nearer the 70 than the 70 year mark. By no means is he on the home stretch. His abundant energy and minute attention to the details of his big business attest that.

40 YEARS FOR MICHAEL STORE
Next fall will terminate the fortieth year since the establishment of the Michael store, and with this year will end Mr. Michael's 44th year as a Lima clothing merchant.

He went into business in 1880 at the southwest corner of the Public Square, in the building known as the Thompson Block. He remained there two years, then sold out to Lichenstader Bros. He formed there a partnership with Jacob Wise, a pioneer business man well remembered by the older residents of the city. When Mr. Michael moved to Lima in 1878, from Ligonier, Ind., he entered the employ of Jacob Wise. Mr. Wise then was located in the southeast section of the square adjacent to the Jacob Wise dry goods store, the original store of its kind in Lima. With the building of the Faurot Opera House block on W. High-st., in 1892, there was a northward trend in business. Up until that time the public square was the trading center in the city and it was with some hesitancy that merchants began drawing away from the precincts of Lima's mercantile activity. But the rush for new locations was genuine and soon other sites were as much desired as those on the square.

OPENS NEW TRADE AREA
The clothing firm of Wise & Michael moved into the Faurot block while workmen were still laying the first floor. It was considered far beyond the business limits, and was the first mercantile house north of High-st. In fact, there were few businesses north of the square. Mr. Michael bought out Mr. Wise in 1887. Mr. Wise died about 1890. The new owner was the first to introduce the one-price system in local trade. Before that time there was a great deal of bartering prevalent. As a young business man, this practice was obnoxious to Mr. Michael. He was also the first man in Lima to advertise steadily. Other merchants had tried advertising, but were content to make one little ad suffice for a long period of time, with no changes. Mr. Michael introduced the modern method of advertising, and the success of his store is a monument to the efficiency of the printed page.

The firm of Wise and Michael succeeded in the new quarters. It was difficult at first, Mr. Michael admits, to draw trade from the square. There were no business buildings on the west side of the street but a row of residences lined the thoroughfare and a church stood adjacent to the Faurot block.

From 1887 until 1896 Mr. Michael conducted the business himself, but in the latter year he admitted his brothers, Theodore and Max Michael.

CAME FROM GERMANY
The history of N. L. Michael's life reads like fiction. At the age of 15 he was still a lad in a small village near Coblenz on the Rhine, in Germany. On his 16th birthday he left for America to "find the dollars that hung on every tree," as was reported in his home village. He did not find the dollars on the trees, but did find them in a different manner, the source being far more substantial than the mythical trees that haunted the brains of his fellow townsmen in Germany.

It was in 1872 when he arrived in America. He went to Ligonier, Ind., and six years later moved to Lima. It was a fortunate day for the city when Mr. Michael decided to try his fortunes in the Alden-co street of government.

"We have always catered to the man seeking good merchandise. We have always sold quality rather than cheapness," N. L. Michael declared. The emporium occupies a fine first floor and balcony basement location, where may be found anything desired in men's apparel while in the basement is sold working men's clothing. Surplus stock is also handled in the basement.

SUMMERS & GILLES HOME OF GOOD CLOTHES

John E. Summers and William N. Gilles are members of the old-established firm of merchant tailors known as Summers and Gilles, who for the past 16 years have been located at 205-7 Cincinnati block, at the southwest corner of Market-st and the Public Square.

Both Mr. Summers and Mr. Gilles have been in the tailoring business for a quarter of a century and more. The partnership has existed since April of 1868.

"Quality Tailors" is the appropriate name by which Summer & Gilles are known. Throughout the many years they have been in business, they have prided themselves on the quality of their work, upon the excellence of their all-wool fabrics and upon the style distinction, coupled with a "100% Satisfaction Guarantee" which has proven to the public throughout the years that they are a tailoring concern that can be relied upon, "that has stood the test of time."

Those who seek faultless tailoring, the finest materials, and style distinction will find Summers and Gilles clothes the finest to be had.

GOODING'S STORE 40 YEARS OLD

Old Reliable Shoe House Stands Test of Time

KEEPS PACE WITH PROGRESS

Established in 1881 by Father of F. E. Gooding

When E. M. Gooding established his shoe store at No. 230 N. Main-st in November of the year 1881, forty years ago, the thoroughfare presented a sight that would shock present-day Limaites, provided they were privileged to glimpse the city of the 80's.

Not only was the street devoid of paving of any kind, but it also stood forth in a decidedly unlovely way. On the west side of the street there was not a business place of any kind but a row of residences lined it. The Allen-co court house was completed only to the first floor.

OLDEST IN LIMA

This store enjoys the distinction of being the oldest of its kind in Lima. The fortieth year was completed last November. It has occupied the same location since the beginning of its mercantile career and was the first on the east side of North Main-st.

In 1913, when E. M. Gooding left to retail shoe business and entered the real estate and insurance business under the name of Gooding Sons & Co., Citizens Building, his son, Fred E. Gooding, "stepped into his shoes."

Gooding, the younger, has faithfully taken up the reins and steered the store year by year to bigger and better things. In 1921 the store enjoyed the biggest business in its history. Gooding is anticipating a "best year" in each fiscal period, as long as the store continues.

At the time of its establishment the store was known as The Gooding Cash Shoe House, but this out-of-date name was shelved in favor of The Gooding Shoe Co. Gooding believes he has one of the best appearing stores in northwestern Ohio, an opinion shared by the thousands of purchasers who trade there each season.

BIG TRADE FROM OUTSIDE
As much of its trade comes from sources outside the city as within. Mail orders form the nucleus of a large part of this business, but a large percentage of out-of-town traders are numbered among the many who seek satisfaction of their needs at the store itself.

In 1917 an enlargement in the form of a 75-foot addition was completed. Today The Gooding Shoe Co. is equipped to outfit any kind of foot, from the size of the famous Charlie Chaplin brogans to the foot-wear of Cinderella daintiness. When one visits the Gooding Shoe Co. store he is assured of expert attention. A corps of efficient clerks, with an unlimited stock, is always ready to shod the feet of the many who want good shoes and know where to find them. A well equipped basement department affords a large selection of low-priced shoes, rubbers, men's work shoes, etc. All else is found on the ground floor.

EGGS PACKED IN OATS FOR SHIPMENT IN OLDEN DAYS

It should not be difficult for many Lima residents to recall the Harman general store, N. Main st. It began in business there in the later 60's. F. E. Harman, son of the organizer of the store, recalls that it handled almost anything.

One of his most distinct recollections is that at the general store eggs were packed in crates by using oats as a filler to prevent them from breaking. A market was found for them in Philadelphia, Baltimore and commission houses in other cities.

"YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD"-ROWLANDS

First Furniture Store in City to Adopt Slogan

ESTABLISHED 29 YEARS AGO

Substantial Firm Wins Way in Lima Business Life

Confidence in the honesty of his customers has been a big factor in the success of J. W. Rowlands, one of Lima's early business organizers in the furniture line. His was the first furniture store in the city to advertise the slogan "Your Credit is Good."

Mr. Rowlands began business 29 years ago, opening a store just south of the old Burnett House at the N. Main and Wayne-st intersection, on which is now located the Norval hotel. The store now is located at 204 N. Main-st.

SLOGAN ADOPTED
For many years Mr. Rowlands conducted his business on the slogan: "You Furnish the Wife and We'll Furnish the House." This unique saying assisted Mr. Rowlands to attain a high position in the retail circle here.

His striking motto illustrates the fact that advertising pays. He has made a compact with the men of Lima and vicinity that he will take care of the outfitting of their homes if they will join with him. To many of the mere men it did not occur before that somebody else might assist them in two of the greatest problems that confronted them when they gazed, "I do" at Hymen's altar.

Mr. Rowlands has made a specialty of the furnishing of homes and his store is always at the disposal of persons who have found and acquired the home, but are stumped on the interior furnishings. As indicated by his slogan of "Your Credit is Good," the payment of goods purchased at Rowlands is made easy by various plans offered customers.

HAVE BEAUTIFUL STORE
Their attractive emporium at 204 N. Main-st is tastefully furnished in the most up-to-date manner and the large stock of furniture and other necessities for the home beautiful may be found in a profusion difficult to resist.

Walter D. Rowlands, son of the owner, is general manager of the store, and the senior Mr. Rowlands is president of the company.

WHO REMEMBERS LIBA'S FIRST PRODUCE MARKET?

Who remembers when Lima's produce market was located on High-st. at the rear of the Masonic Temple? For years it held forth there and old business men recall that it was conducted along the same lines as the present market.

It served as an "eye opener" for them, for each morning they had to arise early and take care of the people who first thronged the market and afterward the other stores.

HARMAN'S CAREER TRADE ROMANCE

Interesting Story of Success of Lima Merchant

BEGAN IN COUNTRY STORE

Dreams Come True for Head of Furniture House

Frank E. Harman secured his early business experiences in a general store conducted by his father, William Harman, located in N. Main-st., between High and North-sts., on the west side. There is no romance of the retail trade that is more generally fraught with fond memories than that early general purpose store.

After all, the modern department idea carried out in the large stores of these days, is but a replica of the same plan as in vogue in the familiar country general store. In the interior of which may be found anything from a toothpick to a wash tub and from a cravat to a pair of hip boots. General stores are still in existence in many localities, and they are not very much different from those of the early days.

BIG BUSINESS BUILT
So in this store Frank E. Harman absorbed the business atmosphere and gained ideas which have been invaluable to him in the latter days of his business life, leading him to success in the great Harman furniture and house furnishing store at the southwest corner of the Market and Elizabeth-sts. intersection.

The Harman family moved to Lima March 2, 1869, from Valparaiso, Ind. At that time there was only one small grocery store, conducted by Meyers and Steiner, between High and North-sts. F. E. Harman's father bought this building and established a general store. Later the senior Harman had a location at the Lima House corner and also where the Hoover-Bond store now stands.

Harman, the younger, was employed by J. R. Hughes, who conducted a stove and house furnishing store on the public square. Here also was gained much of the early experience that later spell success for him. Mr. Harman remained in the employ of Hughes from August 2, 1877, until January 1, 1886. He bought an interest in the business on the latter date and for three years it was operated under the name of Hughes and Harman. On March 2, 1889, he was one of the partners who opened a store at 215 N. Main-st., under the name of Harman and Bell. This was continued until 1894, when Mr. Harman acquired Mr. Bell's interest. He remained at the same location until September 1, 1913. He began the erection of the new Harman building at the corner of Market and Elizabeth-sts. on April 1, 1913, and the beautiful new store was opened formally November 6, 1913.

DREAMS COME TRUE
These bare business facts tell nothing of the more mellow features of the rise of F. E. Harman in Lima business. Many other lads in country general stores have dreamed of wrestling fortunes from business. F. E. Harman dreamed such dreams in his father's store in his teens. And for him they came true. The Harman family resided on the present site of the Gregg store. Later they resided in a brick house on the Faurot opera house site. The Presbyterian church stood nearby and William M. Bell, later Mr. Harman's father-in-law, resided next door. Across the street, at the southwest corner of the Main and High-sts. intersection, the Masonic Temple was in course of construction when the Harmans adopted Lima as their future home in 1869.

Many of the interesting historical facts found in this section were supplied by Mr. Harman, who has always taken a keen interest in seeing the city grow larger and wax prosperous, the natural result of the hard work of pioneer business men. Mr. Harman attributes much of the success of the city to the fact that this community has in each generation been blessed with the type of men to whom he aptly applies the term "pushers." If the city was blessed in that respect in earlier years, it is even more fortunate at the present time. Among them, needless to say, is Frank E. Harman.

WELL EQUIPPED STORE
The Harman store at Market and Elizabeth-sts. has five floors and a basement, and 20 by 72 feet in length and breadth. Everything a person can think of as a marketable product in the house furnishing business may be found there. The basement is devoted to stoves, kitchen necessities of all kinds, laundry supplies, refrigerators, etc. On the first floor is furniture, phonographs, etc. The second floor is the department for carpets, rugs, draperies, lamps, etc., and the remaining floors are devoted to a general line of furniture.

9 SUBS DESTROYED
WASHINGTON — Nine of Uncle Sam's old submarines have just ended their careers by serving as targets for the guns of the destroyers and squadrons attached to the Asiatic fleet. A brief cablegram telling of the completion of the target practice which had been going on during the past two weeks was received today at the navy department.

ATTORNEY RUINED
SILVERPORT, Pa. — Search was being made in this vicinity early today for Harold Mulks, said to be an attorney for the American Civil Liberties League of New York, who was seized in the lobby of a local hotel last night by two masked men, placed in a motorcar and whisked away from the city in a westerly direction.

SHOPS CLOSED
GALLIPOLI — The Kanaawa and Michigan railroad shops at Hobson were closed today until February 1, owing, so an announcement said, to dull business. Several hundred men are affected.

KILLED IN BLAST
DETROIT — One man was killed, one is missing and two others were injured in an explosion of gas in the blast furnace of the M. A. Hanna steel plant at Zug Island off Ecorse, a suburb, this morning. The identity of the dead man has not been determined. Property damage was small.

RETAIL ROMANCE AT DORSEYS

Provision House Opened Before
Civil War Close

EXISTS OVER HALF CENTURY

Present Owner Second Successor to Originator

Much of the romance of Lima's retail trade may be found at the Dorsey grocery and meat market, corner of Market and Elizabeth-sts. Its organization dates back farther in history than any other store in the city and three generations have controlled it. John Wheeler was the father of the business, having organized it in 1865. It would seem he selected an inopportune time to start in the grocery business, for the nation, just in the last throes of the Civil war, had a keen appetite, but not the wherewithal to appease the inner craving.

CIVIL WAR A HANDICAP
Despite this handicap, the business grew steadily. Its early career was not spectacular nor meteoric, but was gradual and always satisfying. The opening was made in a building occupying the site of the present Pilsman building. Mr. Wheeler moved the business to its present location in 1890, being known as the Wheeler block.

In 1902 Jacob Piper bought the grocery from Mr. Wheeler and conducted it until March 1, 1921, when the present proprietor, E. H. Dorsey, assumed ownership.

For 20 years previous to buying the grocery, Mr. Dorsey had been in business of a like nature at a number of stands in the city. He was located at No. 208 S. Main-st. for seven years and at 216-18 S. Main-st. for almost 14 years. There was a short lapse between his ownership of groceries, during which he was in the coal and auto business.

Quick sales and small profits are foundation stones of the Dorsey store. Mr. Dorsey believes there is more success in this plan than in the opposite policy. He believes in handling good goods at good prices and at all times aims to give his customers exactly what they want. If he learns that a certain thing is in demand it is forthwith obtained.

EMPLOYEES EFFICIENT
It is genuine pleasure to mention Mr. Dorsey's large and super-efficient corps of employees. There are 20 of them in the store on ordinary days and on Saturdays six extra clerks are employed. Two of them have passed the 20-year mark in service. Jacob Breese, who is on the delivery force, has been with the grocery for 24 years, and so far as he knows, Mr. Dorsey said, Mr. Breese has not missed a single payday. Then there is Frank Horner, in the opinion of Mr. Dorsey and many others, the best grocery clerk in Lima. George Enslon has been in the grocery for 17 years, and, including his clerkship in other groceries, has been with the business for 30 years. Most of the Dorsey employees are married and own their own homes.

G. E. Blum's Remarkable Record in Merchandising

TRADE INCREASES STEADILY

House of Blum Grows Large From Small Beginning

It is a far cry from the humble beginning of the Blum dry goods store at No. 57 public square in March of the 1888, to the present palatial emporium at the intersection of Market and Elizabeth-sts. Great things have their inception in small beginnings, however, and the Blum store amply illustrates the fact.

In March of 1922, G. E. Blum will observe the 34th year of his start in the retail dry goods business in Lima. He is one of Lima's oldest merchants in point of years of service. A remarkable feature is that he is still in active management of the big store and bids fair to continue many more years.

GROWTH OF BUSINESS

The increase in business of the store was such that in 1904 it was necessary to seek larger quarters. Accordingly Mr. Blum moved to N. Main-st in the building at present occupied by the Feldman company. It required only six years to outgrow these quarters. In 1910 Mr. Blum undertook the construction of the Annex building on W. North-st, now occupied by the Knights of Columbus, extensive alterations having been made. This structure was 200 feet long and 50 feet wide.

February of 1919 saw the completion of the present magnificent quarters. Each successive move made by Mr. Blum has been productive of great gains in business. The increase was gradual from the time the store was moved to N. Main-st. A chart of the store's business, occupying a conspicuous place in the office, illustrates the growth. The first year in the new building was the biggest in its history. The world war, of course, caused a downward trend, but since this temporary condition has passed, the line on the chart is creeping steadily upward.

BUILDING FIREPROOF

The Blum Building is absolutely fireproof and modern in every respect. It has the only pneumatic cash system between Ft. Wayne and Youngstown and Toledo and Dayton. The newest addition is the ladies' millinery department, recently instituted with great success.

At most the department idea of present-day business emporiums is a lazy one in the minds of the public. One would not suspect that a store could handle such a large assortment of merchandise as is found in the Blum store, yet it is a fact that five floors of the building are jammed with everything in apparel to be desired. The following outline gives an idea of the arrangement of this big store.

First Floor—Ribbons, jewelry, art, knit underwear, hosiery, gloves, men's haberdashery, toilet goods and perfumes, purses and leather goods and luggage.

Second Floor—Silks, woollens, wash goods, linens and general offices.

Third floor—Cloaks, suits, dresses, wraps, furs, corsets, silk underwear, petticoats, and blouses.

Fourth Floor—Children's and infants' wear, domestic and cotton goods and millinery.

Fifth Floor—Rugs, draperies, stand lamps, trunks, curtains, shades etc.

BIG OUT-OF-TOWN TRADE

The Blum store enjoys an out-of-the-city trade within a radius of 50 miles of Lima. Each mail delivery brings a number of mail orders. Lima would be unable to support a business of this magnitude, were it not for outside trade.

That this store keeps abreast of the market is evident from the fact that three times each year a dozen buyers visit the marts of New York and Chicago, obtaining the best and latest merchandise to fill the large emporium for the benefit of local buyers and those within the vicinity of Lima.

Mr. Blum owns the store individually. It is but putting it mildly to state that the store under his management has grown by leaps and bounds. Much of this success is due to the efficient corps of employees, three of whom have been in service in the store for 30 years, almost equalling Mr. Blum's own record, for years of activity.

Mr. Blum's title in local retail trade circles, is "Lima's Merchant Prince." The prominence of his store and his long service affords proof that is as a merited appellation.

Vic Donahey, former state auditor and defeated Democratic candidate for governor in the last campaign, will run for renomination this year.

Donahey said he would not announce his intentions until he has had time to consider developments at the conferences, which have been in progress since Thursday and continued thru Saturday.

ALLIES BEELER STARTS FIGHT FOR NEW TRIAL

Evidence was presented Saturday before Judge F. C. Becker in support of a motion for a new trial in the case of Allie Beeler, former clerk of Shawnee-tp board of education, found guilty by a jury in common pleas court some weeks ago of embezzlement of nearly $5,000 of the board's funds.

E. T. Lippincott, prosecuting attorney, sought to prevent re-trial in his arguments.

Judge Becker took the case under advisement.

THOMAS GROCERY PROGRESSIVE

Established First Motor Delivery 15 Years Ago

STORE WAS OPENED IN 1878

Remarkable History of Lima Enterprise

"Quality First," the motto followed out in the conduct of the Harry Thomas grocery and meat market, 206-8 W. Market-st, one of Lima's most up-to-date business concerns, has always spurred the firm on to greater things in the city's retail trade activities. The idea of being first in everything undertaken is an outstanding feature of the store's business tenets.

This slogan led the owners of this grocery about 15 years ago to institute the first grocery delivery truck in the city. The carrier was complete, if the latter word may be accepted in its full meaning as pertaining to the auto in its first stages of development. At any rate, the store placed a truck on its delivery line and for days it was an eighth wonder of the world in Lima.

It produced as much excitement as would a bomb if dropped from an aeroplane on the public square today. But the inhabitants recovered from their excitement and the growth of the truck idea in store deliveries was rapid from then on. Other concerns soon recognized its value.

Fond recollections hover about the antiquated relic, F. W. Schenk, one of the present members of the firm, remembers having seen it a year ago and according to his statement the "steamer" was still going strong.

The antiquated gas buggy helped the Thomas grocery spring one of the first of a long series of innovations that have done much to transfer the business to a newer and better plane. "Quality First" means that if there is anything new on the market, Thomas' aim to have it first.

This store was originated in 1878 by F. A. Holland where the American Bank building, High and Main-sts, more recently known as the Holland Block, is now located. Harry Thomas, for many years its energetic manager, started with Mr. Holland at the age of 17. He worked his way to the top and bought Mr. Holland's interest in 1900.

A change in location had in the meantime been made. Mr. Thomas erected the beautiful Thomas building, adjoining the Allen-on Savings and Loan company building to the west. It was completed by 1914. Mr. Thomas continued as the head of the store until his death in April, 1916.

F. W. Schenk bought an interest soon after Mr. Thomas' death and Claire Simons became identified with the business in 1920. Mrs. Harry Thomas and these two gentlemen are the present owners. The appearance of the store, both interior and exterior, is in keeping with the high ideals of the firm. The exterior is too familiar to need detailed mention. The interior at all times presents not only a pleasing appearance, but also the wants for something to appease the appetite.

MERCHANTS AID IN INDUSTRY

Lima Business Men Assist in Securing Big Plant.

Retail merchants played a big part in bringing to the city one of the industrial concerns which has been a great boon to Lima's progress. They were among those who a few years after the Civil war assisted in creating a bonus to enable four Upper Sandusky men to establish a shop which afterward became the Lima Locomotive Works. The four were John Carnes, Fred Agarter, George Dismann and Jesse Cole. Citizens subscribed a bonus of sufficient amount to bring the plant here.

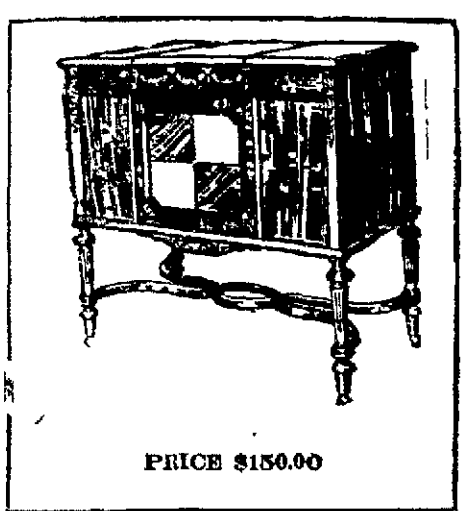

It was a happy day for Lima when John Carnes made the acquaintance of Shay, the inventor of the famous Shay engine, somewhere in Michigan about the time the four men were seeking to establish their plant here. Thru his friendship with Mr. Shay, Mr. Carnes was enabled to land a contract to build the former's engines, the first of which was completed in this city. These locomotives, still in use, are gear driven.

The beginning was made on the present site of the East Iron Machine Co., E. Market-st. The Shay contract paved the way for other business. Incorporation ensued and success continued. In 1901-2 the Lima Park and Improvement Company, an incorporation, sold near what is now Faurot Park and the proceeds given to the Lima Locomotive Works. The lots brought from $200 to $400 each.

The story of the Shay engine illustrates the "push" of Lima's business men. Had they not been quick to recognize the possibilities of the concern and induce citizens to subscribe, the four men from Upper Sandusky would in all probability have taken their project elsewhere.

All of the original organizers of the business are dead. Mr. Carnes was the grandfather of John Carnes now connected with the Wapak Holloware Co.

All Deisel-Wemmer Cigar Factories are Ordered Reopened

Encouraging Outlook for Big Business In 1922, Official States

Announcement was made Saturday night by R. J. Plate, secretary-treasurer of the Deisel-Wemmer company that approximately 1,200 employees of the Lima plants will resume work Monday. The plants will return to a normal employment and production basis.

Resumption of the cigar factories taken as an indication that there can be a general revival soon in various other lines of industry. All of the plants operated by the Deisel-Wemmer company, at other points, will also be reopened Monday, Plate stated.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE

Deisel-Wemmer company employees have been idle since a few days before Christmas, when the plants were closed for the annual inventory and for the purpose of making changes and improvements in the various factories.

Employees to the number of 700 will return to the north side factory Monday and 500 to 600 at the South side plant. Several thousand workers in branches in other cities will also return to work at the same time.

Action of the Deisel-Wemmer company in ordering a reopening of the plants will aid in a great measure in relieving the unemployment situation in this city, as well as in other cities where their numerous branch plants are located.

Save for a small force of El Ver workers who may not be recalled for a few days, in order that the stock may be equitized, all of the company's local employees will go back to work Monday, Plate announced.

IMPROVEMENTS HAVE BEEN COMPLETED

In all the factories and they are now declared by Plate to be in excellent condition for the resumption of work.

FUTURE OUTLOOK FINE

"We anticipated what the inventory would show and are satisfied," Plate said. "Due to the slump in business we did not expect anything very great, so therefore we are not disappointed," the secretary-treasurer added.

"Business in the new year is starting off fine. Mail orders are being received in encouraging numbers. We are banking on a big business in 1922," the official announced.

CALLS NEWBERRY CASE DISGRACE

Harrison Talks on White-Washing by Senate.

OMAHA, Neb.—That Senator William H. Newberry owes his seat in the senate to "certain powerful influences" and his "whitewashing" by the senate was a greater disgrace than the Michigan elections, was charged here Saturday night in an interview by Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat, Democratic leader.

Senator Harrison, who was here to address Omaha Democrats, refused to affirm statements attributed to him in the Omaha News that he charged that money featured in the "trading of votes."

"At least two senators who were strong in their opposition to Newberry, switched their votes at the last minute," Harrison declared.

"These senators were strong for the Willis amendment, which condemned the expenditure of large sums of money in political campaigns and stated that such expenditures were contrary to public policy and integrity and ethics of the senate."

"Certain Newberry followers agreed to vote for the Willis amendment and in return certain senators, who planned on voting against him, voted for Newberry on the final ballot."

"Any remarks I made regarding being 'bought off' referred to the pressure brought to bear on the Willis amendment deal."

"This was why Newberry was elected. I will have more to say if the occasion arises."

ENBZEZLEMENT CHARGED

CLEVELAND—Michael Grant, 28, is held in $2,000 bonds Saturday night on charges of alleged embezzlement of $1,500 worth of phonographs from the Fisher-Paine company. Police had been searching for Grant since last spring, when it was said he was given the phonographs to repair and never returned them. He denied the charges.

Preczher and Wife of His Friend Gone

Members of Two Marion Ministers' Families Mysteriously Disappear

MARION.—Two church communities near here were agog with gossip Saturday night, following the mysterious disappearance of Rev. W. W. Crabtree and information that Mrs. H. W. Rough, wife of Rev. Rough, was also missing.

Mrs. Crabtree came forth with a statement accusing her husband of an infatuation with Rev. Rough's wife, which she alleged extended over a year.

BEGINNING OF AFFAIR

The alleged affair began a year ago when the two ministers conducted a joint revival at Mount Gilead, the statement said, and since that time Mrs. Rough has frequently visited Rev. Crabtree's home.

Investigators, seeking a trace of the missing minister, were advised he had been seen near Chillicothe, but his trail was lost there.

The disappearance followed Dr. Crabtree's resignation last Sunday. Later, he reconsidered and asked for a leave of absence instead, which was granted immediately afterward, he left his home here, advising Mrs. Crabtree he was going to Louisiana.

WOMAN DISAPPEARS

The simultaneous disappearance of Mrs. Rough was learned Saturday, following the statement by the missing pastor's wife.

"I have the matter under prayerful consideration," was all Rev. Rough would say Saturday night. "God's will be done."

He refused to be disturbed by his wife's disappearance and insisted he would appear as usual before his little congregation Sunday.

Attacks Powers Trying to Prevent Muscle Shoals Deal

WASHINGTON.—Henry Ford here Saturday night struck back vigorously at the forces which have been seeking to prevent his acquisition of the great Muscle Shoals nitrate project.

Attacking the "fertilizer trust," the power and chemical interests of Wall-street and Secretary of War Weeks, Ford left an implied threat that he would throw overboard his offer for the Muscle Shoals plant if a final settlement on the matter were delayed much longer by "irrelevant questions" and by government agents "putting around."

The automobile manufacturer snapped out these words: "We didn't make the government a selfish business proposition—it was an industrial philanthropy which we offered—an offer based on a desire for great public service," he continued. "And you can just say that every time Secretary of War Weeks gets us down here again to settle irrelevant points in this proposition, he'll get a worse bargain."

This is not a political matter to be jockeyed and juggled about—why doesn't he take or leave it, yes, no, as he would in a private business matter?"

Ford then charged the interests opposed to him have deluged congress with lies and misrepresentations on his proposition and announced his intention to force them to prove their statements before committees of congress. He was bitter in his attack on governmental rap and waste, declaring the government more salve on Muscle Shoals than it has obtained from any other of its war plants.

OIL TOWN AFIRE

Loss at Mexia, Texas, May Reach $1,000,000

DALLAS, Texas.—Mexia, the southwest's greatest oil town, was ablaze Saturday night, with a disastrous fire.

The loss was variously estimated at between $250,000 and $1,000,000. The fire started in a downtown building.

Water pressure failed almost completely under the demands of the fire department.

A stiff wind fanned the flames. Messages which arrived here from Mexia after a delay of more than an hour, stated that preparations were being made to dynamite in an effort to halt the blaze.

MINERS MEET THURSDAY

COLUMBUS—Ohio miners' leaders conferred here Saturday, in advance of the state convention, which opens Tuesday. District delegates in session with Lee Hall, district president, said Saturday they anticipated no special action at the state convention as a result of the declaration of the Ohio and Pennsylvania operators to abrogate the "four-state agreement."

NEW MAY LAND HAYS' CABINET JOB

Heads the List as Probable Successor to Postmaster General

DICKEY IS SECOND

Harding Favors Indiana Senator, Daugherty for Kansas City Man

(By RAYMOND CLAPPER)

WASHINGTON.—A crusade to make the moves the most powerful educational force in the United States, will be undertaken by Will H. Hays, who Saturday night announced his intention to resign as postmaster general and become the Judge Landis of motion picture industry.

Hays was confident that all the movie interests would back him in this effort. In fact, he has made it one of the conditions preliminary to his final signing of the movie contract, but his announcement Saturday that he had decided to undertake the motion picture work indicates assurances to this effect already have been received.

JUMP IN SALARY

Hays will probably leave the cabinet on or before March 4. His resignation will formally be handed to the president who has agreed to accept it as soon as he executes his contract.

Hays' salary will jump from the $12,500 mark of a cabinet officer to approximately $147,000.

This will leave him a net income when taxes and other expenses are paid of about $100,000. His contract is to run for three years. The financial part of the contract has been definitely agreed upon, it was said.

PROBABLE SUCCESSOR

Speculation as to Hays' successor centered Saturday night around Senator Harry S. New of Indiana, one of President Harding's closest friends. New faces a discouraging campaign for re-election to the senate from Indiana, and a cabinet offer at this time would save him the terrific expense which would be necessary to conduct a successful campaign.

Attorney General Daugherty is understood to be favorable to the appointment of Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, William Boyce Thompson, of New York, is said to be the first personal choice of Hays. Others mentioned are Chairman Lasker, of the shipping board; Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, director of the budget, and Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman from New York.

However, it is virtually certain that a middle westerner will be selected.

IRISH STRIKE IS AVERTED

Threatened Rail Tie-Up Prevented By New Ministry

DUBLIN.—Great things were accomplished in a few short hours in Ireland Saturday.

The south of Ireland parliament approved the peace treaty with Great Britain.

A provisional government to establish the Irish free state was elected with Michael Collins at its head.

This government signed a ratification of the peace treaty and forwarded it to Dublin Castle.

The threatened Irish rail strike was averted thru the efforts of the newly elected ministry.

The south of Ireland parliament, which was elected after the passing of the latest home rule bill, but whose members never before took their seats, met Saturday at the call of Arthur Griffith. The Sinn Fein president, having won the support of the Dail for the treaty, lost no time in seeking the approval of the larger southern legislature. Without a dissenting vote—the followers of De Valera having abstained from attending the south Ireland parliament voted its approval of the peace treaty.

Indiana Senator is most prominently mentioned as successor to Postmaster General Hays.

CHINA WILL NOT YIELD TO JAPS

Puts Tokio's 21 Demands Up to Arms Conference

WASHINGTON.—China will demand of the Far Eastern conference the abrogation of Japan's 21 demands of 1915.

In the face of manifest efforts to sidetrack this issue the delegation let it be known thru an official statement of Dr. Chung Hui Wang, delegate, Saturday night, that the Chinese will not keep their peace on this issue.

These demands, which China was forced to accept because of Japan's ultimatum, virtually make China a vassal state, her delegates here claim.

The Japanese already have indicated their opposition to discussion of the demands in the conference.

CHINA'S CLAIMS
The Chinese will place the theme squarely before the conference and will say in substance:

This is no mere two-power affair. It affects the whole world. It shuts the open door, for which you, in the past have declared and for which the conference is newly on record. It makes China virtually a vassal state. And it touches the "equality of opportunity" for foreign nations in China.

Meanwhile, the final draft of the naval treaty, with the Pacific fortification clauses temporarily omitted, has been distributed to the delegations. This clause—Article 19—will go in as soon as the conference has the accepted approval of Japan thereto.

Wang's statement came at the close of a day marked by new progress on the Shantung negotiations and an optimism over final adjustment of the Shantung railway dispute.

The Japanese had agreed to full and unconditional return of the leased territory of Kia Chou to China as soon as the Shantung agreement is made and in operation. Previously, they had pledged its return; this was merely making the pledge more binding.

The Japanese and Chinese both indicated they expected the railway topic to come up early next week, their final instructions of the Hughes-Balfour compromise suggestions had not arrived. Peking, the Chinese said, had asked for clarification of these suggestions.

FORD CUT SMALL

Reductions Range from $6 to $15, Official Announces

DETROIT, Mich.—Ford prices will be cut from $15 to $6 on the opening of business Monday, January 16, according to W. J. Ryan, general sales manager of Ford Motor Company, in a statement given exclusively to the United Press here Saturday night.

The schedule of cuts was given to him Saturday by Edsel Ford, over the long distance telephone from New York, he said.

Telegrams announcing the reductions, were sent late Saturday evening. Ryan said the cuts which follow were only nominal.

The runabouts will be cut $6, the touring cars, $7, chassis, $10; coupe sedan and ton truck chassis, each, $15.

Edsel Ford will arrive in Detroit Sunday, Ryan said, and will issue a statement concerning the cut.

HARDING TO SPEAK

AKRON—President Harding, William Jennings Bryan and Senator F. B. Willis, Saturday night were announced as the principal speakers at the annual state Christian Endeavor convention which will be held here June 27 to 30. More than 4,000 delegates are expected to attend.

JURORS ARE DEADLOCKED BY ONE VOTE

11 Members Stand for Conviction of Accused Slayer of Kennedy

HELD IN SESSION

Request for Discharge of Body Is Ignored by the Judge

(BY FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW.)

LOS ANGELES.—The jury sitting in the trial of Arthur W. Burch, charged with murdering John Belton Kennedy, was still trying to reach a verdict Saturday night.

After being out more than 24 hours, the jury appeared hopelessly deadlocked by one woman's vote.

Judge Sidney B. Reeve Saturday night ignored a request from the jury that it be discharged because of failure to reach an agreement.

The jury sent note to the court thru a bailiff asking that it be discharged.

WOMAN STANDS FIRM.
The judge paid no attention to the request and left for his home after announcing:

"I will be ready to receive a verdict at any hour tonight or Sunday."

The jury, it was understood, still stands 11 to 1 for conviction.

Mrs. Eva Demott, one of the ten women jurors, was said to be the one who was holding out. Mrs. Demott, thru the trial, by her questions evinced sympathy for Burch.

The little defendant nervously paced his cell thru the day. His round face was frequently wreathed in smiles, however, and side from showing himself to be under tension, he did not appear apprehensive.

WOMEN RALLIED TO PARTY

Call To Loyalty Is Issued By Mrs. Harding

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding, in what was said to be the first political document ever issued by the wife of a president of the United States, Saturday called on the women of the country for "party loyalty, conviction and devotion."

A letter from Mrs. Harding, containing the call for national service thru party affiliations was received at the luncheon of the Women's National Republican Club here. Speakers at the meeting also stressed party loyalty, but voiced strong disapproval of the League of Women Voters, whose aims are partisan.

"Get out your bibles," said Miss Alice G. Robertson, congress woman from Oklahoma. "There you will read that no man can serve two masters. If there are any Republican women here who belong to the League of Women Voters the sooner they get out the better."

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the vice-president, represented Mrs. Harding. More than 1,000 women attended. The letter from Mrs. Harding said in part:

"From a point of view much wider than that which embraces merely party considerations, there is utmost need for effective and unrelenting effort at organization, education and civic training among women."

JURY FOR ARBUCKLE TRIAL IS NOT YET COMPLETED

SAN FRANCISCO.—Interest lagged Saturday in the trial of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe.

The usual crowd filled the court room and the stage setting was in no way different from the height of the first trial, but no one, not even Fatty, could become deeply absorbed in the tedious process of trying to get a jury. A two-hour session was held. At the end of that time, no ground had been lost and none had been gained. There still were 11 jurors in the box, all subject to peremptory challenge.

BLAST KILLS FOUR
MOUNT PLEASANT, Tex.—Four men were killed and four others injured when a boiler in the Spencer saw mill exploded here late Saturday.

The dead are: George W. Parker, owner of the mill; Tom Parker; Louis Hays and Henry Churchill.

FIRM'S OFFICE CLOSED
AKRON—Alex Bernstein, receiver for E. W. Wagner company, broker, Saturday closed up the Akron office of the firm. Offices at Youngstown and Cleveland also were closed. Bernstein was former service director of Cleveland.

VIEW ALTERED BY BABY

MRS. CHARLES GARLAND, WIFE OF HUSBAND AND THE CAPE COD COTTAGE IN WHICH GARLAND IS LIVING.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass.—Baby hands.

They've swayed the idealistic determination of Charles Garland, who several months ago refused a $1,000,000 legacy from his father, on the ground he was not entitled to money he did not earn.

Now Garland has revised his decision.

Garland will take the legacy—but not for himself. One-third of it he'll settle on his wife and baby, the he and his wife have separated.

Five hundred dollars he'll take to spend for needed improvements on the humble farm house he occupies here on the land he tills with his own hands.

The rest he'll distribute among 10 friends.

Slaying of Bootlegger and Boozie Bandit Explained.

COLUMBUS.—Murder of a bootlegger and a boozie bandit were solved Saturday night by confessions police obtained.

Carl Katz, formerly of Newark, found dead on a roadside near Columbus, was shot after an attempt to raid a rum runner's automobile, while Maurice Clark, former Columbus policeman, was shot down in self-defense, his wife claimed.

James R. Richardson and Nathan Levi late Saturday cleared the mystery surrounding Katz' death in alleged confessions to Sheriff Holy-cross.

They said they deposited the body by the roadside after bringing it from Hamilton, where the shooting occurred.

Levi declared the automobile started in pursuit of the booze runners who they had seen lead five cases of whiskey in an automobile.

"We overtook the car and Katz got on the running board of our machine, then leaped to the running board of the other car," Levi said.

"I saw the driver of the other car stick a gun thru the side curtain and shoot Katz twice. We picked up Katz in the road and brought him to Columbus, stopped for gasoline and then took his body out on a country road."

JAILED FOR CONTENTION
AKRON—Orville P. Kennedy, Canton, was in county jail here Saturday night, serving a two-day sentence for contempt of court, in giving a false age on a marriage license.

POINCARÉ IS TO GIVE OUT LIST TODAY

New Ministry Expected to Demand Last Penny of German Payments

FOR FRANCE FIRST

Changed Policy May Bring Split Between Paris and London

(BY WEBB MILLER.)

PARIS.—Lloyd George and Raymond Poincaré—the one standing for a united, reconstructed Europe, the other for a French nationalist policy somewhat narrower, met Saturday night to see what could be saved from the wreck of the Cannes conference.

The meeting of the British premier and the French statesman who probably will head the next French government, was fraught with tremendous possibilities. A serious disagreement between these two would imperil all Europe.

Lloyd George, enroute back to England, to begin his fight to rehabilitate Europe along his own lines, approved by all the allies save France, stopped off in Paris to see whether he and Poincaré could reach a basis of settlement. His first conference was with Aristide Briand, who resigned with his government on Thursday.

CABINET CHOSEN.
Despite strong opposition from the left, however, it appeared Saturday night that Poincaré had been successful in organizing his proposed ministry. The important posts were filled and formal announcement of the new government's roster will be expected to be made Sunday night.

Poincaré has gathered about him some of the leading statesmen of his country. The places definitely filled are:

M. Manoury for minister of the interior.

M. Barthou, minister of justice, vice-president of the cabinet and head of the administration of Alsace-Lorraine.

M. DeKastelyle, minister of finance.

M. Mignot, minister of war and pensions.

Rene Viviani, former premier and member of the French delegation to the Washington arms conference, refused to accept the post of minister of justice in the Poincaré cabinet.

STRONGLY NATIONALIST.
The proposed government would be strongly nationalist, favoring a policy of "France for Frenchmen" and the forcing of the last possible penny in payments from Germany.

It was believed possible, however, that Poincaré could meet Lloyd George half way in the matter of establishing an Anglo-French defensive pact and that this might be consummated despite the divergent views of the two leaders. France, as a whole, is anxious to be a signatory to such a pact, despite the technical opposition which resulted in the resignation of Briand. The French want the security which an alliance would assure them, but they want the pact framed in such a way as to make it appear they are protecting England as much as England is protecting them.

Poincaré has a fairly good press Saturday. The papers warn him his task is not an easy one and those on the left, of course, attacked him bitterly as reactionary, but on the whole his prospects of establishing a ministry which will stand the acid test of the chamber of deputies are considered fair.

POINCARÉ MORE OBSTINATE.
Lloyd George and Poincaré were in a private conference for half an hour at the British embassy Saturday evening.

The two statesmen discussed various Franco-British questions which are pending, including the proposed defensive pact. Lloyd George, it was understood, found Poincaré much less disposed to agree with his (Lloyd George's) plans than was Briand, particularly on two points.

These were:

1. Conditions upon which Russia should be admitted to the Genoa economic conference.

2. England's demands for French military reductions in exchange for the defensive pact.

Lloyd George was understood to have given Poincaré to understand that England was especially interested in a reduction of France's naval and submarine aspirations as a first condition to the pact.

The two being unable to agree on these two major points, the "conversation" was adjourned until the Poincaré ministry shall have been formed, when the French statesman, who will be premier and able to speak for France, will request a renewal of the discussion.

Lloyd George leaves for London Sunday morning.

THESE LIMA FIRMS HAVE "STOOD THE TEST OF TIME"

FELDMAN'S STORE IS PIONEER

History of Business a Record of Expansion

IS SHOW PLACE OF CITY

Feldman & Co. Dry Goods Store Opened in 1887

Two Lima pioneers in the retail business began on May 7, 1887, the business which is now the Feldman Company Dry Goods store. These two men, who foresaw a great future for the retail dry goods business in Lima, were Messrs. Bert Wohlge-muth and A. Feldman. The start of the great concern was made at No. 213 N. Main-st in a small room known as the Bell block.

This partnership continued for some years and Jonas Wohlge-muth, the present senior member of the firm, entered into active participation in the business after the withdrawal of Mr. Feldman.

QUARTERS OUTGROWN
Their small quarters were occupied until the year 1895, when the increasing need for more space was acutely felt. The business was then moved to 209-211 N. Main-st. These two rooms had been occupied by the Treat dry goods store and the Hatter millinery store, but the new occupants changed the quarters into a double store room. This improvement marked an epoch in Lima; it was the first double store room in the city. At that time it was the most modern store here.

Later on, in 1905, Bert Wohlge-muth withdrew and Jonas Wohlge-muth became the sole owner. After a few years, Mr. Henry Kammerer, who had been an employee in the store for several years and had shown aptitude for business, was admitted to partnership in 1914. The firm is now composed of Jonas Wohlge-muth, the senior member, and Henry M. Kammerer, the junior member.

MORE SPACE NEEDED
As the years went on, the business was cramped in its inadequate quarters. Consequently it could not do justice to the growing activities. While the need for more space was apparent for some time, the opportunity for expansion did not present itself until 1919, when the handsome building, known as the Central block, at Nos. 221-223 N. Main-st, was occupied, giving the firm an opportunity to enlarge every department. The garment and millinery department was added on the second floor. This addition compares favorably with anything that better stores in larger cities are able to offer.

The policy of the company has always been the same—to be fair in all its dealings with every patron, no matter what the nature of the purchase may be, whether great or small. All these years the firm has been specializing in the merchandise it handles, making the store headquarters for any line it deals in. This is a feature of the store. Rather than handling a little of everything, its departments are complete in every detail. Having become cognizant of the fact that the firm maintains this policy, the purchasing public of Lima and surrounding towns feels there is no need to go to the larger cities to find complete and up-to-date merchandise.

BUY ONLY THE BEST
The buying organization is in contact with the centers where the best merchandise is procurable, having the same advantages in this respect as the larger city stores. In many instances the merchandise is found in the Feldman store at lower prices than similar goods in stores in larger cities.

Throughout these many years the store has been fortunate in being surrounded by a well-meaning and painstaking sales force, which has been one of the big factors in building up the business. It has always been a source of pride to the management to have it said that the saleswomen of Feldman's store are always accommodating and helpful to patrons in the selection of merchandise.

Appreciation of these fine things is evident from the splendid business the departments have enjoyed since their opening.

The spaciousness of the various departments is a marked feature of the establishment, and is a source of pride to the women of Lima to take occasion to show visiting friends there the store. The most appreciated feature is a well-situated and pleasing rest room, which offers all comforts and facilities to ladies who visit the store. Mr. Wohlge-muth made the following interesting statement in closing an interview:

STORE "35 YEARS YOUNG"

"While the store is nearly 35 years old, we are in reality 35 years young, being more aggressive than ever and catering to the needs and comforts of the buying public. Customers may buy what they want at our store with the utmost confidence; their interests being our paramount policy. While we are glad to hear favorable things from patrons, we are equally interested to hear justified complaints, and welcome the opportunity to make good anything that has gone wrong."

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Beryl Montague, 27, street car conductor, 1212 Forest-ave, and Miss Myra Vondola, Morton, 21, saleswoman, 765 Oak-st.
Miles Leon Mitchell, 22, laborer, 1325 W. Spring-st, and Miss Geraldine James Carpenter, 17, housekeeper, 1422 W. Spring-st. Both parties are colored.

A Mystery story crowded with thrills and holding its suspense until the end: "The Step on the Stairs" by Isabel Ostrander, America's greatest detective story writer. First installment in "The Lima News" Sunday, January 16.

When F. E. Harman purchased the land on which his store is located at Market and Elizabeth, he paid $25,000 for it. Quite a contrast to the original price, for this piece which was a part of lot 260 and 241 and included all the land to the alley at the telephone building and also the Zellitz property. These two lots were transferred on January 3, 1834 by the County commissioners to William Terry for the sum of $10 which would make the original price of Harman's notion $5 or less. There owned at that time a farm where Laurel park is now and was the father of Mrs. Jonathan Custer. The two lots were sold in 1835 for $67. In 1858 they were sold by the sheriff for $267. Thirt bought them in 1866 for $2,250 and later sold them for $8,500. Harman bought this property in 1913 consisting of a piece of land 99x72 feet.

SAFE FINANCIAL INSTITUTION

Lima Home Savings Association Weathers All Storms

NOT HALTED BY WAR, PANIC

Guided by Men Who Have Won Confidence of People

It was certainly a worthy purpose that led five incorporators on September 26, 1887, to institute the Lima Home Savings association, one of the oldest financial institutions in the city. The incorporators, L. H. Kibby, J. H. Woods, Thomas H. Jones, M. A. Hoagland and A. W. Kahle, established an association where people may deposit their money with absolute safety and at the same time have assurance of receiving a good return on their investment, also, give people who desire to buy and build homes, the necessary loans.

Thus the Lima Home Savings association has assisted in promoting the growth and welfare of the city, as the result of which the wealth of every citizen in Lima has been materially added either directly or indirectly.

POLICY MAINTAINED
Co-operation has been its policy since organization and is still maintained. Safety, service and satisfaction has always been given patrons, evident from the fact that the association has grown from a few thousand dollars when organized to an institution today of over $2,600,000.00.

Wars and panics have never held any terrors for this strong institution, and it does not fear adverse conditions that may arise in the future. Both wars and panics have been experienced, but despite them it has grown in strength and size. No depositor ever lost a dollar in this association, but everyone who shared in the advantages it offered have profited by its staunch qualities.

The board of directors and officers who at present guide the affairs of the Lima Home and Savings association are all business men of Lima who have had many years of experience, are successful and are familiar with property and its value. You are without doubt acquainted with all of them. If you are not, you should be. The reason why the association has been so successful is because these men have been at the head of it. In the list will be found men of prominence in the affairs of Lima. They are men who are fearless in their acceptance of responsibility.

STRONG DIRECTORATE
C. H. Cory, president and director, is a retired railroad superintendent; J. B. Morris, vice-president and director, is a member of the firm of Morris Bros., clothing; R. W. Parmenter, vice-president and director, identified with the Parmenter Printing company; R. T. Gregg, director, R. T. Gregg Dry Goods store; W. C. Bradley, director, Lima Packing company, and Joseph Potter, director is a retired mechanic. Frank B. Mead is the attorney and Harry M. Stemen the secretary.

The association is located in the Mammoth building, intersection of W. High and Elizabeth-sts, just west of the postoffice and opposite the Arconce hotel. The interior is commodious, with ample facilities for handling callers in an expedition. There are four receiving windows.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

BASINGER STORE IN NEW PLACE

Old Established Jewelry House Now Has New Home

IN BUSINESS OVER 20 YEARS

Optical Department Equipped With Modern Devices

January 1 of the present year saw the removal to a new location of one of the Lima stores which has been in business 20 years — Basinger's Jewelry Store. The recent change from the Wise Block, corner of Main and High-sts, was made necessary by the dismantling of the latter structure, but at 146 N. Main-st, opposite the old location the store now occupies quarters better by far than the old place of business.

Beautiful silver birch forms the nucleus of the interior finish. A paneled effect has been given the walls and all fixtures in the commodious interior are of silver birch. The ivory beamed ceiling lends a dignified air to the interior.

Basinger's store has its own vault where all valuable jewels are kept. This is one of the many advanced features to be found there.

The optical department is equipped with the most modern instruments. It is splendidly located and the person having his eyes examined, as well as the optometrist, are away from the bustle of the remainder of the store. This department is in charge of a registered optometrist.

The work and repair shop is the most modern in the city. It is equipped to handle any sort of special order work and jewelry repairing. The workshop is an aide with the optical department, in manufacturing glasses. Engraving is given the most careful attention and the watch making at Basinger's Jewelry Store is complete to the minutest detail.

It is with genuine pleasure that the store introduces to the buying public a specially equipped room for the purchase of diamonds. It is located at the front, near the entrance, and is entirely segregated from the remainder of the interior. Here prospective buyers of diamonds may make their selection without interruption and the salesman is enabled to give them his undivided attention.

Only the highest quality diamonds, jewelry, watches and other goods are found at Basinger's. The slogan "Gifts That Last," bespeak the aim to satisfy patrons. A new line of goods known as antique bronze will satisfy the desire for ornamental pieces of unexcelled quality. Bronze, silverware, cut glass, etc., are displayed in separate pavilion cases of tasteful design.

Altogether, the Basinger Jewelry Store is one of the most modern in northwestern Ohio. The good service of the past will be continued in the new location and the store hopes to maintain the excellent reputation it has enjoyed in its 20 years and more of operation.

THESE LIMA FIRMS HAVE "STOOD THE TEST OF TIME"

GREGG STORE TO BE EXPANDED OWEN BROS. BUILD FINE BUSINESS LIMA STORE HAS FINE RECORD RENZ BREAD WINS WAY TO RENOWN

Big Floor Space and Sales Force to be Added Soon.

WILL ENLARGE DEPARTMENTS

Popular Dry Goods House Is Favorite With Buyers.

Shortly after the completion of its 20th year, the R. T. Gregg & Co. dry goods store, 212-214 N. Main-st., will commence many new and important additions. February will usher in the 22nd year of the store's existence and the improvements will be started in the spring.

Under the new arrangement, the store will occupy the entire Black Block, its home since establishment by R. T. Gregg, in 1901. There will be four floors and a basement, representing a total of 50,000 square feet of floor space.

WILL ENLARGE STORE
The store now occupies the first floor and basement of the building and does a general dry goods and furniture business, the latter line being handled in the basement. One of the outstanding improvements will be a ladies' ready-to-wear apparel department on the second floor occupying a space of 50 by 200 feet. Ladies' ready-to-wear apparel garments of all kinds will be handled. There will also be a new department for carpets and draperies and the furniture line will be augmented. In fact, all the present departments will be enlarged.

Great strides were made since the inception of this business in 1901 when Mr. Gregg moved here from Tiffin, where he had been in business for 14 years. He is in the 35th year of his business life.

CONSERVATIVE METHODS
Gregg's store has always been conducted on a conservative, tho' healthy and sound basis. More merchandise was sold there in 1921 than in any previous year of the business. This fact is particularly significant in view of the general business depression, which, however, is expected by many of Lima's retail merchants to be dissipated before many more months.

With the expansion of the store, many more people will be given employment. The sales force now numbers between 50 and 60, but after the changes 100 or more will be necessary.

R. T. Gregg and his son, Roy B. Gregg, are in active management of the store.

MOTOR HEARSE BUILDERS

Also Do General Automobile Work For Clientele

Owen Bros., 111-121 S. Central-av., manufacturers of motor hearses and who do general automobile work, have been in their present location eight years. The brick and stone building they occupy was erected in 1913, made necessary when the progressive business outgrew the original quarters of the firm at the rear of the present site of the Orpheum theatre on W. Market-st.

STARTED IN 1898.
Merrill D. Owen has been a Lima resident longer than his brother, Robert D. The former came here in 1898 and began business in partnership with John Palmer at Market and Union-sts. Carriages were built by them. Palmer & Owen soon found it necessary to find larger quarters. They located in the Stometz Building on W. Market-st. Another move was made to the Hetrick Block nearby. Robert Owen came to the city in 1902 and began as foreman in his brother's shop. After John Palmer and the senior Owen dissolved partnership, the latter took his brother into the business and for five years they did business at the rear of the Orpheum site.

The Owen brothers had the foundation of their success in Kenton, where both were blacksmiths. They are of direct Welsh descent and are active and aggressive business men.

WIN WIDE REPUTATION.
Each year Owen Bros. turn out 125 new motor hearses jobs and the general auto rebuilding, painting, body-making and top-making work is on a scale too large to give figures on the amount turned out annually. An average of 75 motor hearses are rebuilt every year. These jobs are sent to all parts of the United States, as the result of which Owen Bros. enjoy a country-wide reputation for the excellence of their work. The plant gives employment to many persons. The numbers varies, but 50 is considered a good average.

HIGH SCHOOL LECTURE.
Thomas Brooks Fletcher will deliver a lecture as the fourth number of the Central High School course, Friday night, at the school auditorium. His subject is "Tragedies of the 'Unprepared'."

Carter & Carroll Dry Goods "House of Fashion"

PIONEER FIRM IN THIS CITY

Monster Emporium Caters to Wants of Many Buyers

Carter & Carroll, occupying a prominent position among Lima's retail dry goods stores and one of the oldest firms in the city, dates back 33 years, when the business began as Carroll & Cooney, in a room just one door north of the present location.

Carroll & Cooney continued for 15 years. In 1904 George R. Carter took over Mr. Cooney's interest and has managed the business since. Mr. T. B. Carroll has been identified with the store since its origin.

ERECT BUILDING IN 1907
The late J. C. Thompson banker erected the building in which the store is now located in 1907. He permitted the management to design it for its particular business. Quarters consist of three selling floors and a basement, which is also a selling floor. Each is 200 feet long and 25 feet wide, making a total floor space of 20,000 square feet.

Carter & Carroll specialize in medium and high class reliable merchandise. They control many of the leading brands of the country for Lima and vicinity. Some of them are Munsing underwear, Red Fern and Warner rust proof corsets, the celebrated Wayne-knit hosiery for men, women and children, Verite women's wearing apparel and various other widely-advertised lines.

IS "HOUSE OF FASHION"
The firm is known as the "House of Fashion" and enjoys an enviable reputation in Lima and environs. Carter & Carroll's policy is on a high class basis and satisfied customers is the particular hobby of the big emporium.

Between 50 and 60 people are employed in the sales force, insuring customers the most efficient service.

DEATH OF INFANT MILLER

IS STANDARD FOR 25 YEARS

Well-Deserved Success Attends Efforts of Firm.

For 25 years Renz's bread has been synonymous with good eating. Jacob F. Renz who, with his three sons, William, Carl and Walter Renz, conduct the business at 320 N. Main-st., began in 1887 in business on the west side of the street, where Biome's restaurant is now located.

OLD METHODS RECALLED
In those days Mr. Renz had a crude old hearth oven with an arch which generally managed to break down about every week. Walter Renz recalls. All yeast was made from potatoes and all the multifarious duties about the shop were performed by hand. The Renz bakery in the old establishment was a far cry from that of today with its complete equipment, and most everything done by machinery.

Two five-barred mixers scientifically mix the dough. Each has a capacity of 500 pound and a half loaves at one mixing. Only the purest water is used in Renz's bread. It is supplied from a 200-foot well. Scaling, rounding, proving and moulding processes ensue each in turn before the dough is conveyed to the ovens.

There are three of the latter. Each has a capacity of 450 loaves every half-hour. They are gas-fired, the aim in employing that fuel exclusively being to eliminate the smoke and dirt of coal fires. The bread making equipment is as complete as possible. A special department for cake and pastry making is maintained.

The retail room is excellently well furnished in the most-up-to-date manner, all of which insures for Renz's bakery continued prosperous existence.

RAY SISSON, ARRESTED ON SUSPICION, RELEASED

Ray Sisson, 20, arrested by police on suspicion, was released prior to noon Saturday. Sisson recently obtained release from the county jail, on bond. He was awaiting trial on a burglary and larceny charge, and no date has been set for his trial. Johnson Baker, a pal captured at the same time, went up on a charge of attempted highly robbery. Sisson was not implicated on the charge.

WOMAN BLOCKS VERDICT IN BURCH MURDER CASE

All Deisel-Wemmer Cigar
Factories are Ordered Reopened

Encouraging Outlook for Big Business in 1922, Official States

Announcement was made Saturday night by R. J. Plate, secretary-treasurer of the Deisel-Wemmer company that approximately 1,200 employees of the Lima plants will resume work Monday. The plants will return to a normal employment and production basis.

Resumption of the cigar factories is taken as an indication that there will be a general revival soon in various other lines of industry. All of the plants operated by the Deisel-Wemmer company, at other points, will also be reopened Monday, Plate stated.

Improvements MADE
Deisel-Wemmer company employees have been idle since a few days before Christmas, when the plants were closed for the annual inventory and for the purpose of making changes and improvements in the various factories.

Employees to the number of 750
will return to the north side factory
Monday and 500 to 600 at the South side plant. Several thousand workers in branches in other cities will also return to work at the same time.

Action of the Deisel-Wemmer company in ordering a reopening of the plants will aid in a great measure in relieving the unemployment situation in this city, as well as in other cities where their numerous branch plants are located.

Save for a small force of 25 Verso workers who may not be recalled for a few days, in order that the stock may be equalized, all of the company's local employees will go back to work Monday, Plate announced.

Improvements have been completed
in all the factories and they are now declared by Plate to be in excellent condition for the resumption of work.

OUTLOOK FINE
We anticipated what the inventory would show and are satisfied," Plate said. "Due to the slump in business we did not expect anything very great, so therefore we are not disappointed," the secretary-treasurer added.

"Business in the new year is starting off fine. Mail orders are being received in an encouraging numbers.
We are looking on a big business in 1922," the official announced.

CALLS NEWBERRY CASE DISGRACE

at Harrison Talks on White-washing by Senate.

OMAHA, Neb.—That Senator
Thomas H. Newberry owes his seat in the Senate to "certain powerful influences" was his "whitewashing
by the Senate" was a "greater disgrace than the Michigan elections," was charged here Saturday night in an interview by Senator Pat Harrison, Mississippi, Democratic leader.

Senator Harrison, who was here to address Omaha Democrats, refused to affirm statements attributed to him in the Omaha News that he charged that money featured in the "trading of votes."

"At least two senators who were strong in their opposition to Newberry, switched their votes at the last minute," Harrison declared.

"These senators were strong for the Willis amendment, which condemned the expenditure of large sums of money in political campaigns," he stated. "That such expenditures were contrary to public policy and dignity and ethics of the Senate."

"Certain Newberry followers agreed to vote for the Willis amendment and in return certain senators, who planned on voting against him, voted for Newberry on the final ballot."

"Any remarks I made regarding being 'bought off' referred to the pressure brought to bear on the Willis amendment deal."

"This was why Newberry was seated. I will have more to say if the occasion arises."

Preccher and Wife of His Friend Gone

Members of Two Marion Ministers' Families Mysteriously Disappear

MARION.—Two church communities near here were agog with gossip Saturday night, following the mysterious disappearance of Rev. W. W.
Crabtree and information that Mrs.
H. W. Rough, wife of Rev. Rough,
was also missing.

Mrs. Crabtree came forth with a statement accusing her husband of an infatuation with Rev. Rough's wife, which she alleged extended over a year.

The disappearance followed Dr.
Crabtree's resignation last Sunday.
Later, he reconsidered and asked for a leave of absence instead, which was granted. Immediately afterward, he left his home here, advising Mrs. Crabtree he was going to Louisiana.

WOMAN DISAPPEARS
The simultaneous disappearance of Mrs. Rough was learned Saturday, following the statement by the missing pastor's wife.

"I have the matter under prayerful consideration," was all Rev.
Rough would say Saturday night.
"God's will be done."

He refused to be disturbed by his wife's disappearance and insisted he would appear as usual before his little congregation Sunday.

Attacks Powers Trying to Prevent Muscle Shoals Deal

WASHINGTON.—Henry Ford here Saturday night struck back vigorously at the forces which have been seeking to prevent his acquisition of the great Muscle Shoals nitrate project.

Attacking the "fertilizer trust,"
the power and chemical interests of Wall-street and Secretary of War Weeks, Ford left an implied threat that he would throw overboard his offer for the Muscle Shoals plant if a final settlement on the matter were declined much longer by "irrelevant questions" and by government agents
"putting around."

The automobile manufacturer snapped out these words:
"We didn't make the government a selfish business proposition—it was an industrial philanthropy which we offered—an offer based on a desire for great public service," he continued. "And you can just say that every time Secretary of War Weeks gets us down here again to settle irrelevant points in this proposition, he'll get a worse bargain."

"This is not a political matter to be jockeyed and jugged about—why doesn't he take or leave it; yes or no, as he would in a private business matter?"

Ford then charged the interests opposed to him have deluged congress with lies and misrepresentations on his proposition and announced his intention to force them to prove their statements before committees of congress. He was bitter in his attack on governmental red tape and waste, declaring that the government more save on Muscle Shoals than it has obtained from any other of its war plants.

OIL TOWN AFIRE

Loss at Mexia, Texas, May Reach $1,000,000

DALLAS, Texas.—Mexia, the southwest's greatest oil town, was ablaze Saturday night, with a disastrous fire.

The loss was variously estimated at between $250,000 and $1,000,000.
The fire started in a downtown building.

Water pressure failed almost completely under the demands of the fire department.

A stiff wind fanned the flames.
Messages which arrived here from Mexia after a delay of more than an hour, stated that preparations were being made to dynamite in an effort to halt the blaze.

COLUMBUS.—Ohio miners' leaders conferred here Saturday, in advance of the state convention, which opens Tuesday. District delegates in session with Lee Hall, district president, said Saturday they anticipated no special action at the state convention as a result of the decision of the Ohio and Pennsylvania operators to abrogate the "four-state agreement."

Heads the List as Probable Successor to Postmaster General

DICKEY IS SECOND

Harding Favors Indiana Senator, Daugherty for Kansas City Man

(By RAYMOND CLAPPER)
WASHINGTON.—A crusade to make the moves the most powerful educational force in the United States, will be undertaken by Will H. Hays, who Saturday night announced his intention to resign as postmaster general and become the Judge Landis of motion picture industry.

Hays was confident that all the movie interests would back him in this effort. In fact, he has made it one of the conditions preliminary to his final signing of the movie contract, but his announcement Saturday that he had decided to undertake the motion picture work indicates assurances to this effect already have been received.

JUMP IN SALARY
Hays will probably leave the cabinet on or before March 4. His resignation will formally be handed to the president who has agreed to accept it as soon as he executes his contract.

Hays' salary will jump from the $12,500 mark of a cabinet officer to approximately $147,000.

This will leave him a net income when taxes and other expenses are paid of about $100,000. His contract is to run for three years. The financial part of the contract has been definitely agreed upon, it was said.

PROBABLE SUCCESSOR
Speculation as to Hays' successor centered Saturday night around Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana, one of President Harding's closest friends. New faces a discouraging campaign for re-election to the senate from Indiana, and a cabinet offer at this time would save him the terrible expense which would be necessary to conduct a successful campaign.

Attorney General Daugherty is understood to be favorable to the appointment of Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City. William Boyce Thompson, of New York, is said to be the first personal choice of Hays. Other names mentioned are Chairman Lasker of the shipping board; Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, director of the budget, and Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman from New York.

However, it is usually certain that a middle westerner will be selected.

IRISH STRIKE IS AVERTED

Threatened Rail Tie-Up Prevented By New Ministry

DUBLIN.—Great things were accomplished in a few short hours in Ireland Saturday.

The south of Ireland parliament
approved the peace treaty with Great Britain.

A provisional government to establish the Irish free state was elected with Michael Collins at its head.

This government signed a ratification of the peace treaty and forwarded it to Dublin Castle.

The threatened Irish rail strike was averted thru the efforts of the newly elected ministry.

The south of Ireland parliament,
which was elected after the passing of the latest home rule bill, but whose members never before took their seats, met Saturday at the call of Arthur Griffith. The Sinn Fein president, having won the support of

CHINA WILL NOT YIELD TO JAPS

Puts Tokio's 21 Demands Up to Arms Conference

WASHINGTON.—China will demand of the Far Eastern conference the abrogation of Japan's 21 demands of 1915.

In the face of manifest efforts to sidetrack this issue the delegation let it be known thru an official statement of Dr. Chung Shui Wang, delegate, Saturday night, that the Chinese will not keep their peace on this issue.

These demands, which China was forced to accept because of Japan's ultimatums, virtually make China a vassal state, her delegates here claim.

The Japanese already have indicated their opposition to discussion of the demands in the conference and will say in substance:

This is no more a two-power affair.
It affects the whole world. It shuts the open door, for which you, in the past have declared and for which the conference is now on record. It makes China virtually a vassal state.
It touches the "equality of opportunity" for foreign nations in China.

Meanwhile, the final draft of the naval treaty, with the Pacific fortification clauses temporarily omitted, has been distributed to the delegations. This clause—Article 19—will go in as soon as the conference has accepted the approval of Japan thereto.

Wang's statement came at the close of a day marked by new progress on the Shantung negotiations and an optimism over final adjustment of the Shantung railway dispute.

The Japanese had agreed to full and unconditional return of the leased territory of Kia Chou to China as soon as the Shantung agreement is made and in operation. Previously, they had pledged its return; this was merely making the pledge more binding.

The Japanese and Chinese both indicated they expected the railway topic to come up early next week, tho their final instructions of the Hughes-Balfour compromise suggestions had not arrived. Peking, the Chinese said, has asked for clarification of these suggestions.

11 Members Stand for Conviction of Accused Slayer of Kennedy

HELD IN SESSION

Request for Discharge of Body Is Ignored by the Judge

LOS ANGELES.—The jury sitting in the trial of Arthur W. Burch, charged with murdering John Belton Kennedy, was still trying to reach a verdict Saturday night.

After being out more than 24 hours, the jury appeared hopelessly deadlocked by one woman's vote.

Judge Sidney B. Roove Saturday night ignored a request from the jury that it be discharged because of failure to reach an agreement.

The jury sent note to the court thru a bailiff asking that it be discharged.

WOMAN STANDS FIRM.
The judge paid no attention to the request and left for his home after announcing:

"I will be ready to receive a verdict at any hour tonight or Sunday."

The jury, it was understood, still stands 11 to 1 for conviction.

Mrs. Eva DeMott, one of the ten women jurors, was said to be the one who was holding out. Mrs.
DeMott, thruout the trial, by her questions evinced sympathy for Burch.

The little defendant nervously paced his cell thruout the day. His round face was frequently wreathed in smiles, however, and side from showing himself to be under tension,
he did not appear apprehensive.

WOMEN RALLIED TO PARTY

Call To Loyalty Is Issued By Mrs. Harding

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Warren G.
Harding, in what was said to be the first political document ever issued by the wife of a president of the United States, Saturday called on the women of the country for "party loyalty, conviction, and devotion."

A letter from Mrs. Harding, containing the call for national service thru party affiliations was received at the luncheon of the Women's National Republican Club here Saturday afternoon. She stressed party loyalty, but voiced strong disapproval of the League of Women Voters, whose aims are partisan.

"Get out your bibles," said Miss Alice G. Robertson, congress woman from Oklahoma, "here you will read that no man can serve two masters.
If there are any Republican women here who belong to the League of Women voters the sooner they get out the better."

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the vice-president, represented Mrs.
Harding. More than 1,000 women attended. The letter from Mrs.
Harding said in part:

"From a point of view much wider than that which embraces merely party considerations, there is utmost need for effective and unrelenting effort at organization, education and civil training among women."

Slaying of Bootlegger and Booze Bandit Explained.

COLUMBUS.—Murder of a boot-legger and a booze bandit were solved Saturday night by confessions police obtained.

Carl Katz, formerly of Newark, found dead on a road-side near Columbus, was shot after an attempt to raid a rum runner's automobile, while Maurice Clark, former Columbus policeman, was shot down in self-defense, his wife claimed.

James R. Richardson and Nathan Levi late Saturday cleared the mystery surrounding Katz' death in alleged confessions to Sheriff Holycross. They said they deposited the body by the roadway after bringing it from Hamilton, where the shooting occurred.

Levi declared the automobile started in pursuit of the booze runners who they had seen load five cases of whiskey in an automobile.
"We overtook the car and Katz got on the running board of our machine, then leaped to the running board of the other car," Levi said.
"I saw the driver of the other car stick a gun thru the side curtain and shoot Katz twice. We picked up Katz in the road and brought him to Columbus, stopped for gasoline and then took his body out on a country road."

JAILED FOR CONTEMPT

urday night, serving a two-day sentence for contempt of court, in giving a false age on a marriage license.

POINCARÉ IS TO GIVE OUT LIST TODAY

New Ministry Expected to Demand Last Penny of German Payments

FOR FRANCE FIRST

Changed Policy May Bring Split Between Paris and London

PARIS.—Lloyd George and Raymond Poincaré—the one standing for a united, reconstructed Europe,
the other for a French nationalist policy somewhat narrower, met Saturday night to see what could be saved from the wreck of the Cannes conference.

The meeting of the British premier and the French statesman who probably will lead the next French government, was fraught with tremendous possibilities. A serious disagreement between these two would imperil all Europe.

Lloyd George, enroute back to England, to begin his fight to rehabilitate Europe along his own lines, approved by all the allies save France, stopped off in Paris to see whether he and Poincaré could reach a basis of settlement. His first conference was with Aristide Briand, who resigned with his government on Thursday.

CABINET CHOSEN.
Despite strong opposition from the left, however, it appeared Saturday night that Poincaré had been successful in organizing his proposed ministry. The important posts were filled and formal announcement of the new government's roster will be expected to be made Sunday night.

Poincaré has gathered about him some of the leading statesmen of his country. The places definitely filled are:

M. Manoury for minister of the interior.

M. Barthou, minister of justice, vice-president of the cabinet and head of the administration of Alsace-Lorraine.

M. DeKasteyrie, minister of finance.

M. Mignot, minister of war and pensions.

Rene Viviani, former premier and member of the French delegation to the Washington arms conference, refused to accept the post of minister of justice in the Poincaré cabinet.

STRONGLY NATIONALIST.
The proposed government would be strongly nationalist, favoring a policy of "France for Frenchmen"
and the forcing of the last possible
penny in payments from Germany.
It was believed possible, however,
that Poincaré could meet Lloyd George half way in the matter of establishing an Anglo-French defensive pact and that this might consummate despite the divergent views of the two leaders. France as a whole is anxious to be a signatory to such a pact, despite the technical opposition which resulted in the resignation of Briand. The French want the security which an alliance would assure them, but they want the pact framed in such a way as to make it appear they are protecting England as much as England is protecting them.

Poincaré had a fairly good press Saturday. The papers warn him his task is not an easy one and those on the left, of course, attacked him bitterly as reactionary, but on the whole his prospects of establishing a ministry which will stand the acid test of the chamber of deputies are considered fair.

POINCARÉ MORE OBSTINATE.
Lloyd George and Poincaré were in a private conference for half an hour at the British embassy Saturday evening.

The two statesmen discussed various Franco-British questions which are pending, including the proposed defensive pact. Lloyd George, it was understood, found Poincaré much less disposed to agree with his (Lloyd George's) plans than was Briand, particularly on two points.

These were:

1. Conditions upon which Russia should be admitted to the Genoa economic conference.

2. England's demands for French military reductions in exchange for the defensive pact.

Lloyd George was understood to have given Poincaré to understand that England was especially interested in a reduction of France's naval and submarine aspirations as a first condition to the pact.

The two being unable to agree on these two major points, the "conversation" was adjourned until the tomorrow ministry shall have been formed, when the French statesman, who will be premier and able to speak for France, will request a renewal of the discussion.

Lloyd George leaves for London
Sunday morning.

KIDDIES HOPE FOR SNOW VISIT

Promise of more snow is held out for Sunday, the forecast indicating a cloudy Sabbath and colder temperature in the west portion.

Since their hopes of a heavy blanket of snow in which to revel in winter sports were partly realized Friday night, the kiddies are assailing the prognosticator for failure to live up to his promises.

If it should snow today, there may be more time to enjoy it, for Monday is scheduled to be fair and colder.

BUDGET MEASURE READY TO PASS

Commission Makes $21,000 Cut in Salary Lists

Use of the pruning knife on salaries in the engineering, police and fire departments, coupled with money saved in the abolition of a number of city jobs, will result in lowering the amount to be carried in the salary ordinance by $21,000.

Manager Clarence A. Bingham announced Saturday.

The ordinance, together with the proposed budget discussed at a previous meeting January 6, when the slash in pay of the cops and fire fighters was voted, are up for passage before the city commission Monday night.

More than one half of the saving effected in the salary ordinance was at the expense of the firemen and police. The remainder is accounted for by reducing and laying off members of the engineering department and the salaries formerly paid for office help.

The budget for the first half-year call for an appropriation of $233,000. It will probably go through, with minor changes amounting to a few hundred dollars, Manager Bingham stated.

Under the budget the total appropriation for the fire and police departments for the first six months will be $69,800. Outdoor relief will receive $1,500 from the city; the engineering department, now merged with the street department into the department of public works, $4,900; street lighting, $24,000; street cleaning, $2,500; sewers, $1,200; park, $1,440; municipal market house, $1,600; city hospital contract, $3,000; and the city library, $2,000.

A total of $17,835 is set aside for the general fund for the first six months of the year. It is expected that this sum will provide for administrative salaries, justice and police courts and legal advertising.

For the water works $99,865 is set aside and for the health department $4,195 is planned. These sums will pay all salaries and defray all other expenses until July 1.

Under the budget the total appropriation for the fire and police departments for the first six months will be $69,800. Outdoor relief will receive $1,500 from the city; the engineering department, now merged with the street department into the department of public works, $4,900; street lighting, $24,000; street cleaning, $2,500; sewers, $1,200; park, $1,440; municipal market house, $1,600; city hospital contract, $3,000; and the city library, $2,000.

DIES IN FIGHT TO SAVE OTHERS

Cleveland Pays High Tribute to Hero Doctor

CLEVELAND—Cleveland Saturday night was in mourning for Dr. Peter Jaglenski, youthful physician.

His was a heroic death—stricken down in the midst of a battle to save the life of fellow man.

He was found sitting upright at the desk in his office, after his fall or had smothered thru a door. Dr. Jaglenski had been missing and friends had become worried over his absence.

He fell with a bad cold, Dr. Jaglenski hurried thru the snow and cold last Thursday night to attend a pneumonia victim. He was advised at the time that the trip might prove serious.

All night he remained with the patient—and won the fight.

But the fight cost Dr. Jaglenski his life. He died of acute pneumonia from which he was trying to save 43 patients.

From early morning until late Saturday evening, hundreds of people streamed to the Jaglenski home to pay final respects to Cleveland's "hero doctor" whose supreme sacrifice saved human lives.

"It is a physician's duty," Dr. Jaglenski declared a short time previous to his death, when telling of the numerous calls he had made at the expense of his own health.

He attended the Ohio State University college of homeopathic medicine. Dr. Jaglenski was 25 years old.

OVERDRAFTS ARE PREVENTED

New Forms Adopted by Bingham Safeguard City Funds

Standardized accounts, introduced into city book-keeping by Manager Clarence A. Bingham, following a personal investigation of cafes and dance halls Saturday night.

It still lacked an hour of midnight, when the new manager abandoned the quest and announced he intended to seek his couch.

"It isn't nearly so wild a place as I've been told," he said. "I've found everything very quiet."

Under the new system, whether money is spent by the safety department or department of public works, it will go to its separate account.

Accounts for each department are to be kept on a uniform sheet. In auditing the sheet it will be possible to tell how the money was spent, for what and when. Outstanding bills for material purchased, show against the balances.

Another new form introduced is an order and contract register. When an order is issued it must have the approval of the manager and pass thru the hands of the auditor. The price of the material is checked against the balance in the fund. This eliminates the possibility of buying what cannot be paid for.

"No fund can be overdrawn," declared Auditor Clem, "unless an order is made on my part."

Should supplies be ordered and the order cancelled, the amount of the order is entered as a credit to the account, against which it was drawn.

This assurance made to the Chamber of Commerce means that all of the money for stock subscribed will be put back into circulation here.

The three factories are the American Knitting Machine company, National Automatic Music company and the National Piano company. Offices have been opened in the American Bank building. Approximately $60,000 of the amount required has been snapped up by stockholders. Among the investors are two of the three men who investigated merits of the concerns.

DECISION IS HELD UP BY DONAHEY

Davis, Too, Noncommittal on Gubernatorial Plans

Following a series of conferences with Democratic leaders for three days, A. V. Donahey, former state auditor, announced in Columbus Saturday night he would withhold publication until Monday in regard to his decision to again seek the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Donahey has been unofficially informed that former Governor Judson Harmon and Hugh L. Nichols, former Supreme court justice, will not oppose his nomination. Vigorous campaign will be waged if he decides to run, Donahey said.

Governor Harry L. Davis left Columbus Saturday for a week-end visit in Cleveland, without indicating his position in the political situation. He will again visit Columbus before starting on a trip to Florida.

Davis has refused to discuss reports that he will not be a candidate for re-election, or that he will not seek a senatorial seat.

Friends of Harvey C. Smith, secretary of state, continued plans Saturday night to obtain the Republican gubernatorial nomination for him.

UNEMPLOYMENT REFLECTED WHEN 26 MEN TAKE TEST FOR ONE CARRIER JOB

Prevalence of unemployment was reflected Saturday when 26 men competed in an examination held at the Lima postoffice to fill one vacancy on a rural route at Delphos.

But one of the applicants can be successful. Others who may pass will be placed on an eligible list for the county, and will be entitled to such positions as may be open within the next year. Although eligible, no women took the examination.

Result of the examination will not be known for 60 days. Salary for a wagon route is $1,800 a year and $2,450 to $2,600 yearly for a motorized route.

LIMA NIGHT LIFE IS QUIET, BINGHAM FINDS

That night life in Lima is not nearly so wicked as it is painted, was the assertion made by City Manager Clarence A. Bingham, following a personal investigation of cafes and dance halls Saturday night.

It still lacked an hour of midnight, when the new manager abandoned the quest and announced he intended to seek his couch.

Money For Stock in Piano Company Goes Into Buildings

A new note in the poem of prosperity that is being heard in Lima, was sounded Saturday with the announcement that all of the $150,000 stock subscribed to bring three big industries here, Grand Rapids, will be spent here for labor and material.

Contract for buildings for the trio of factories will be awarded here. Lima will carry the hods and lay the brick and do what else is needed.

This assurance made to the Chamber of Commerce means that all of the money for stock subscribed will be put back into circulation here.

The three factories are the American Knitting Machine company, National Automatic Music company and the National Piano company. Offices have been opened in the American Bank building. Approximately $60,000 of the amount required has been snapped up by stockholders. Among the investors are two of the three men who investigated merits of the concerns.

NEW FLOUR FOR MAKING WAFFLES PERFECTED BY LIMA BAKER PROMISING

"Waffles while you wait." That will be possible now, due to the enterprise of a Lima man.

Heretofore housewives have shied at the task of making the tasty batter preparation because of the work involved in getting them made. Ed. Stolzenbach of the Stolzenbach Baking Co., has revolutionized the making of waffles by perfecting a special flour containing everything that's needed in them except the moistening ingredients.

Women have been able for a long time to mix flap jacks on a minute's notice, but never before has anyone been able to get a flour containing the essentials for waffles. With Stolzenbach's preparation, all that are needed are the flour, milk, a stirring spoon and a baking iron.

So great are the possibilities of the flour, it is declared, John Carnes of the Wapak Holloware Co., will make a specialty of it, along with his famous waffle irons.

TWO OF ALLEGED COAL TRAIN LOOTERS TAKEN

Two of the party of 20 alleged to have aided in looting a B. & O. railroad freight Friday night, stealing nearly a car load of coal, were taken into custody by police late Saturday.

They are Leonard Cowlick, 42, white, 1020 Arch-ave and Andrew Jackson, 27, colored, 129 W. Third-st. The officers responsible for the capture are Patrolmen Charley Billstein and Frank Kinzer, recently transferred from the downtown section to less populous beats on the extreme south side.

The two policemen were informed that the two men were trying to sell coal. Jackson was endeavoring to sell a wagon load for $5, police say. The officers took both the men, the coal and teams to the police station. They will be arraigned Monday.

FIVE CONTRACTORS TO SEEK POSTOFFICE JOB

Thirty-Five Per Cent Immediately Snatched Up!

Every Dollar Spent in Lima

These Companies have already announced to the Chamber of Commerce that outside of the moving expenses, every dollar invested in this $150,000 worth of stock will be spent in Lima. Lima contractors will be given the job. Lima workmen will be employed. Lima supply dealers will furnish the building materials. Every dollar will be put right back into circulation here. No gift or bonus has been asked. Dividend paying stock is given in return for every dollar that helps pay these bills.

The Lima Chamber of Commerce has been instrumental in interesting these companies in considering a move to Lima. Buildings here to house the various groups will cost about $150,000. Lima and vicinity is being asked to subscribe the necessary stock to erect these factories. Three hundred persons will be brought here from the present home of the Companies at Grand Rapids, Michigan. At least 100 homes must be found. Three million dollars annually will be added to Lima's bank clearings. Estimated at $1,000 each, $300,000 additional volume of sales will go out of the stores of Lima. The Chamber of Commerce sent a committee of non-interested business men to Grand Rapids to study the proposition. The preliminary verbal report was an enthusiastic one. A written report will be made later. Two of the investigators have already subscribed $1,000 each. That shows what they found out about it.

EUROPE'S FUTURE WELFARE DEPENDS ON OUTCOME OF GENOA CONFERENCE

New Battlefield for British and French to be Opened

CONCEPTIONS ARE DIFFERENT

One Political, Other Economic,
Wide Gap is Present

(BY FRANK B. SIMMONDS.)

WASHINGTON.—(Special.)—Already the Washington Conference is very clearly giving way for that gathering at Genoa at which the problem of economic regeneration
will replace that of disarmament.
In reality, however, there will be a new field for a battle, the battle between the British and French conceptions of Europe, the battle between the two maps, the political and the economic map.

And since it is about these conflicting conceptions that the struggle of the forthcoming conference will center, I shall try in the present article briefly to present the French and British views. Genoa will be in many ways the most important and important international understanding since the Paris Conference, taking since there will not be impossible the wheels of the industrial world turning, and failure may spell ruin for Europe; and success or failure will come as British and French representatives are able to compromise or, bound by the views of their respective nations, refuse the recent Washington performance as the basis.

CONCEPTIONS DIFFER.

What is the French conception of Europe? Primarily political where the British is economic. France sees the future safety of the Europe created by the Treaty of Versailles, and only in such a Europe is there
a full century before. Rumania, say, the survival of the so-called "succession states," the countries created or greatly transformed by the Paris treaties which liquidated
the World War.

The French thesis is quite simple.
By virtue of the decisions reached at Paris France regained a freedom which had been destroyed more than
a full century before. Rumania, by acquiring lands inhabited by Latin peoples more than doubled her population and on three sides obtained frontiers which give promise of proving formidable. Czechoslovakia succeeded to that title of Bohemian independence, the last remnant of which disappeared in the fatal days of the Thirty Years War. Yugoslavia gathered under one sovereignty all of the Southern Slavs, hitherto divided over centuries.

Now the French idea is that if these several states, Poland with a population of more than 30,000,000, Yugoslavia with nearly 15,000,000, Czechoslovakia with 12,000,000 and Rumania with more than 10,000,000
can endure long enough to acquire national solidarity and political unity, to get a real start in life, so to speak, then the New Europe, which is expressed by them will also endure. By French diplomacy has sought then, by systems of alliances to insure this survival and a system of alliance has brought into a measure of agreement nearly 75-80,000,000 of people.

Behind this combination, numerically impressive at least stands France with 40,000,000, of people
the strongest army in the world.
The French army is the real guarantor of the independence of Europe, always threatened by Germany and the Polish army may one day prove as valuable an aid to France
as was the Russian army in the terrible days which preceded the Battle of the Marne in September, 1914.

French statesmen believe that if Poland can have time to achieve a real national organization, she will become one of the great powers of Europe, for she has a greater area and natural resources than Italy and a population which increases with very great rapidity. A Poland of forty or even fifty millions of inhabitants could one day serve as a solid barrier to any German expansion eastward, any German expansion of Russia, which to the French mind would threaten European liberty.

Rumania, to the south, serves similarly as a bulwark against Russian advance into the center of Europe, also longer than Italy with a fertile country and a prolific people, Rumania is bound one day to hold a population at least as great as that of France or Italy today. And in alliance with Poland, Rumania becomes a guarantor of things as they stand in the east of Europe. Moreover, strong Rumania, united by alliance with Yugoslavia, bars the road of German advance southward, closes the door to that hinterland of which we heard so much during
the World War.

If you look at the map you will see that Poland, Rumania and Yugoslavia, stretching in a wide circle
from the Baltic to the Adriatic bar
the path of German advance toward Constantinople, toward the Aegean and the Black Seas, toward the Bosporus, the great peninsula of Anatolia, which detaches itself from this mass of non-German territory and extends northward, holds the dominant fraction of that Czechoslovak population whose future depends upon restriction of German aspirations.

PROTECTION FOR PRESENT.

France believes that this system of alliances will insure the preservation of existing conditions for at least two decades, certainly for the time during which French armies stand on German soil on the left bank of the Rhine and German military regeneration is thus rendered impossible. What may happen twenty or twenty-five years from now no one can safely predict, but at least there is a fair chance that at the end of that time the "succession states" will be able to defend themselves, that Europe will have more peace settled down to the existing order.

Obviously if the French army were largely reduced, if French troops were withdrawn from the Rhine, if Polish and Rumanian and Slav armies were cut down the situation would change. Everyone knows that the German purpose to regain the lands lost to Poland, lands which contain an overwhelming Slav population, is a purpose stronger with the years since the Treaty of Versailles ad has been intensified by the recent loss of most of the coal mines of Upper Silesia.

If French troops were withdrawn within the frontiers of France, then it is almost beyond debate that at no distant time German troops would go into Poland, while Bolshevik troops would attack from the east.
The one who can deny that a quarter of a century hence, German conditions might be such that an attack of French support and backed by a still more powerful Czechoslovakia would seem unwise.

Anyhow, the fact stands, The French mean to defend the Europe that is now revealed by the map.

THE BRITISH IDEA is something quite different. Britain has no further fear of Germany. She thus finds herself at the outset able to dismiss the political factor. What she fears is that the restoration of the economic life of Europe may be so slow that her own population will be forced to migrate before the old markets can be regained and the British factories set to work anew.

She has two million of her population out of work and supported by the state. Quite as bad is the fact that Russian anarchy has deprived her of the Russian markets in which she ought cheap food for the population.
Instead she has to buy dear food in America and the East Indies.

What the British would like to do is to get the economic machine to work and first of all to get the German machine to work. The whole British idea is bottomed on the before-the-war situation in which all of central Europe was economically tributary to Germany, who played the part of middleman for much of British trade.

As to the aspirations of the "succession states," these have never awakened sympathy in Britain. I mean in British Foreign Office quarters, for these succession states constitute a barrier to the speedy reconstruction of economic life. Europe has many new frontiers, much subdivision of territories, much economic rivalry. Political frontiers do not in the least coincide with old economic unities, and if the present system endures not only will all recovery be slow, but much of the old situation will never return.

FRONT ON EXPANSION.

So the British have shown themselves hostile to Polish expansion, they have been severe critics of Czechoslovak expansion, they have shown little approval of the extension of Rumania to the Danube and only a little more regard for the Adriatic ambitions of the Southern Slavs. The only nation whose imperialism has interested
them has been the Greeks, whose campaigns in Asia have had British backing. But this interest only because in the Near East Greek expansion had served a British purpose.

If the British could break down
the French army, persuade the French to reduce it and to retire behind their frontiers, then in fairly short order the Germans would retake their old provinces now within Polish frontiers and the Soviet armies would gather in Russian and Poland. Czechoslovakia would disappear and Rumania would shrink, Austria, as it now exists would unite with Germany and Hungary would regain much of its lost territory.
You would have a central block of territory in Europe wholly dominated by German influence but constituting an economic whole.

More than this you would have Germany very promptly joining hands with Russia and even undertaking the economic regeneration of a Russia which has already passed out of the shadow of extreme anarchy. Now these changes would mean much, very much in the way of facilitating economic development. Europe thus reorganized would promise Britain just those markets which she must have, if she is to continue a great European nation. You would have a sort of Russo-German-British economic alliance, which would have very real consequences economically. And if only economic considerations alone or counted most in this world of ours it would be a natural evolution.

But in such a Europe the small peoples who have just come to liberty would slowly but surely sink into new servitude.

WAR FOR LIFE.

The war between France and Britain today is really as much a matter of life and death for Britain
as the war between Britain and Germany a few years ago. It is not a war of arms but a war of policies.
So far the advantage has been with France for France has managed to defend her policy and maintain it.
She has her army and she has it on the Rhine. Germany is at her mercy and scattered over the center of Europe are four or five growing states all of which share her views
as to the New Europe and are daily becoming politically more vigorous.

"Britain's devastated area is represented by her idle factories and her 2,000,000 unemployed," said one commentator the other day and the simile is exact. More than 90 per cent of the devastated area of France has been restored to production. France has but 15,000 unemployed and her maximum may not be 85,000. If Germany pays—France escapes economically and industrially—but to make Germany pay may mean to keep Britain unemployed indefinitely.

The real issue at Cannes, at Washington as far as Great Britain and France are concerned was all here. American special interest, which marches with British is all concerned in breaking down French policy—but the way is long and the risk of delay enormous.

VIC DONAHEY TO BE CANDIDATE

Practically Assured That He Will Seek Governorship

DURBIN RENOMINATES DAVIS

Willis Wobbles and Newberry Retains Senatorship

(BY J. W. FISHER)

It is pretty definitely established that former Auditor of State A. V.
Donahey, defeated Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio last fall, is going to again place himself in the position of seeking the franchise of the electorate of the Buckeye state.

This much cropped out of Vic's plan of leaving his home over New Philadelphia-way several days the past week, to meet and greet his friends in Columbus. Previous to his appearance in the shadow of the state house, letters of notification of his intention to be there were sent out over the state. A lot of folks met Vic personally, expressing their approval of his plan and urging him to again take up the gauge of battle as the Democratic standard bearer.

More than 5,000 adherents of both the old parties queried Dona-hey by letter and telegram, asking if he intended being a candidate.
These and the sentiment gathered at Columbus from close contact with many others, has probably well satisfied Vic that he's wanted. Public meetings have been held in various places, spontaneously, in favor of the Donahey candidacy. Hundreds and thousands of Republicans are said to be ready and willing to make amends for the mistake they blun-dered into in 1920 when they voted for Governor Davis.

Should any others desire to become candidates, the opportunity is theirs. And it's quite likely there will be others. Friends of Sage Valentine of Franklin-co are persistently pushing his interests and A. P.
Sandies isn't talking for publication
on the Governorship.

Maybe the numerous "talked of"
candidates for the Democratic nomination of Governor are waiting for the arrival of Jackson Day, as a propitious time for taking off the lid.
Since it is practically a foregone conclusion that Governor Davis will seek at the hands of the voters what he is pleased to term "vindication of his administration," his party cansiders do other than permit him to make assured that a Democrat will be the next Governor of Ohio.

There has been silence of the oppressive kind, but the situation should quickly clear now. Since Jud Harmon is out of it there appears to be no longer any question about Vic Donahey being in it—candidatiously speaking. If the psychological moment has not arrived, everybody'll hope it will come soon.
Watchful waiting is tiresome and cannot continue much longer.
Somebody will have to make a move.
There must be a showdown right quickly.

President Harding, fearful of Ohio results if Davis again does a hallo-tro, is urging a G. O. P. pre-primary convention. That's for purposes of elimination—of Davis. This would be a revision to boss rule of the old days, but no one should interpose any objections whatever.
The Republican leaders have pulled out of confidence in the man reputed to make the situation any worse. Reactionary crews always do things that way.

There is a well-defined opinion, everywhere existent, that there will be more votes cast in the 1922 primary elections in Ohio than ever before.
Straws indicate the direction the wind travels and long before the ballot testing tube is adjusted it will probably be patent as to who will be who—and why.

This story would not be complete without reference to the fact that a courageous political editor downstate, disappointed because Jud Harmon won't run for Governor, is trotting out Colonel Jeems W. Faulkner of Cincinnati and Columbus, as a candidate. Jeemsy old boy will appreciate the compliment, alright, but he'd probably get out of the state rather than get himself in the position of being shot at by other newspaper scribes.

Aside from again running Harry L. Davis for Governor in Ohio, the G. O. P. could scarcely pull off anything that will militate in a greater degree to the benefit of the Democratic party than the vote of the Senate Thursday in refusing to declare vacant the seat of Truman H. Newberry of Michigan.

The Republican majority in the upper House of the National Congress, running true to form, voted to keep Newberry and his purchased seat in sight, for the many-angled benefit it will prove to them—until the next election. When the electorate is afforded the opportunity of registering its estimate of what was done in Washington Thursday, it will be up to the leaders of the G. O. P. to tremble.

If Will Hays is a wise bird—and he appears to be—he'll grab off that movie job quick and get away from a sinking ship. The Newberry vote is looked upon as a death blow for further political aspirations of President Warren G. Harding. G. O. P. leaders all over the country have been waiting, with bated breath, almost,
for the result of the Newberry case.
Their cup of grief is now filled to overflowing, for they can easily preceive what the retention of the Michiganer in the Senate means to the party in the future.

Congressman John L. Cable might as well withdraw his bill, designed to widen and strengthen the corrupt practices act, since the highest legislative body in the United States, in the face of an indictment against one of its members and his guilt established by facts presented in the case, refused to retire him from his seat.

That unlawful sums of money and undue influence, purely contrary to the spirit and letter of the corrupt practices act, were employed in behalf of Newberry in his Senatorial fight against Henry Ford, was clearly established. But, drunk with power, safe from the wrath of the people for the time, and with a
"to-ho" with the public" attitude, the G. O. P. crowd put it across for Newberry.

In the face of such action as was taken by the Senate, the Cable bill isn't worth the paper it is written on.

The position of United States Senator Francis Bartlett Willis, on the Newberry matter, is pitiful. After a lot of blow and bluff and bluster, Frankie meekly ate out of the hands of the Washington bosses and like the dutiful child he is, voted against declaring the seat of the Michigan Senator vacant.

The issues for the Ohio campaign in the fall of this good year are joined. These will be Davis and Willis. Davis will afford the pyrotech-nics for that portion of the Republican party which believes that when it helps elect a Governor he should measure up somewhere near to filling the job. They'll welcome the opportunity to ditch him, remembering as they do the ripper bill, the supreme court decision on the emergency clause of the same measure, the fearful fact that the whole emergency law structure, the foreign of resignations under charges of scandal in state affairs and the inability of the Governor to meet conditions. They remember, too, that the Cleveland man has been absenting himself from his place of duty so often and for such extended periods,
that there is no possibility of conditions being other than they are.

Unless reports are incorrect, he is now in Florida, or is soon to be there, basking in the sun of the winter resorts, while Ohio squirms along under the burden placed on its shoulders as a result of an overdose of confidence in the man reputed by the people of his own home county.

Senator Willis was in the position of being able to save himself from the storm of wrath certain to come.
But he did not. His vote to administer a "rebuke" to Senator Newberry will not suffice. He voted against declaring the Michigan man's seat vacant. His approval of Newberry has been registered. The record will rise up in the future as a nightmare and a staking horse to torment him politically.

In the case of Newberry, the result of the Senate fight is similar to the case wherein a jury returned a verdict of not guilty in a charge of horse stealing, but added a warning to the prisoner to "not do it again."

Willis has strengthened the campaign of Senator Atlee Pomerene for the United States Senate. The city of it is that a Republican other than Willis will have to pay for Frankie's mistake.

Congressman John L. Cable will very likely breathe easier when the Troy postoffice melee town in Michigan is finally settled. It can't be done to the satisfaction of all, but John hopes for a quiet time with the loss of as little political cattle as possible.

As in the case of the Lima postoffice, your Congressman is hiding behind a committee endorsement. He has adopted the policy of recommending the applicant which makes it assured Colonel Albert Earle Gale will center under the wire here in advance of all others, unless some naughty bugaboo forces itself into the situation.

There are vague rumors of something going to happen. Just what is, isn't disclosed, but eyes are open and ears are glued to the ground, for the detection of an oncoming muzzup.

Returning to the Troy situation,
Due to the fact that an unusually large number of applied requests
the $3,400 a year stamp molesting task in that city, additional interest has been attracted. And since only two of the large number of seekers were able to measure up in the test, speculation has been rife as to which of the two would secure the work.

That can easily be answered. The choice is with the Michigan G. O. P. committee. "Twill be Harry Carver or John L. Babb. Cable will recommend the choice of the committee, thereby washing his hands of responsibility for whatever may eventuate further along. If dissension should set to the point of a postoffice feud or anything like that,
Cable can easily disclaim responsibility. He's playing a safe game.
It was announced Friday that Harry Carver has been recommended.

Charley Dale, present incumbent,
a Democrat, whose term does not expire until June 4, 1924, will be forced out. He is one of the number accused of undue and pernicious political activity in the 1920 campaign,
when President Wilson was crucified on a League of Nations cross. It may of you, dear readers, are impelled to believe that anyone save a day-and-night, in-season and out-of-season
G. O. P. torch bearer is going to be named for postmaster at Troy—or any other place—forget it. There's the inconsistency of the so-called civil service examination. For instance, imagine, Colonel Gale forgetting that he is a politician and refusing to have anything to do with politics.

It isn't often, gentle folk, you have the opportunity of witnessing such an unusual incident as that which occurred in Columbus the past week,
when there arose question of doubt as to the possibility of Governor Davis standing for nomination for a second term.

William L. Durbin, of Kenton, Democratic state chairman, visited Columbus with a carefully prepared statement, "Renominating Governor Harry L. Davis for a second term" and insisting that he must be accepted by his party.

Durbin argues that the campaign is to be waged upon what Davis has done. The Democratic chieftain did not commit himself on Democratic candidates, but had this to say concerning the G. O. P. outlook:

"I read with a great deal of interest the statement from Washington to the effect that Governor Harry L. Davis would retire from politics temporarily and not be a candidate for either Governor of United States Senator. I have had something to say about the Davis administration thru the General As-ssembly and the Ohio Supreme court.

I desire now to protest in Governor Davis's name this attack upon his character.

"For Governor Davis now to retire would be an act of which no Governor of Ohio could be guilty. He sits in the chair occupied by men who have been fighters from the time of Edward Tiffin. None of these men ran away from a fight.

"Despite all the things that have been said about administration of Harry L. Davis, despite the fact that his own friends have been driven back to Cleveland by charges, despite the numerous scandals, I still am willing to believe in him. I therefore nominate him for his sec

MUCH PRAISE FOR NEW NASH SIX

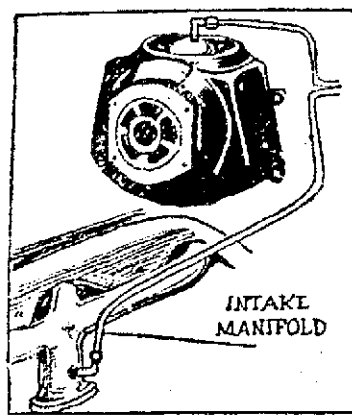

Orders for Cars From All Over Country Flood Factory

With its new air-line body, lowered top, parking lamps and silvered outside door-handles, its new easy riding springs and its perfected valve-in-head motor the greater Nash Six has won instant acceptance as the outstanding motor car value today. From all sections of the country Nash dealers report that those familiar with fine motor cars outspoke in their admiration of the Nash 631 series. Car owners are agreed, according to dealers, that the new Nash series is the crowning achievement of the long and successful manufacturing career of C. W. Nash.

"The public's verdict is an overwhelming endorsement of this series of fine cars," said R. L. McKinley of the Lima Nash company. "We are deeply appreciative of this frank approval on the part of the public and we are genuinely pleased that the endorsement, coming as it has from all sections of the country, was spontaneous. Immediately following the announcement of the Nash 631 series the factory was literally flooded with letters and telegrams from those who have seen these new models. Orders from all sections for immediate delivery are a most eloquent and substantial testimonial to the worth of this car."

Two outstanding features of the Nash 631 are its electrical equipment and its new and wonderful spring suspension. Adoption of the Delco electrical equipment means thoroughly reliable ignition as well as certain and easy starting. The new Nash springs are revolutionary in contrast to former spring construction. They consist of fifteen long thin leaves—a rebound leaf that actually does the work of shock absorbing, a master leaf and

DODGE BROTHERS PRICES REDUCED

New Prices Effective January 1st to Be Announced February 1.

Fifteen hundred Dodge Brothers Dealers were surprised to learn that the prices of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars were reduced in effect on January 1st. Official announcement of the reduction, the form and nature of which caused a sensation in automobile circles, was made by F. J. Haynes, president and general manager of Dodge Brothers, at the Eighth Annual Meeting and Luncheon of Dodge Brothers Dealers in the Pennsylvania Hotel.

The reduction made by Dodge Brothers is decidedly unusual in that it is both retroactive and indefinite, that is, according to the announcement, the new prices of Dodge Brothers cars will not be made public until February 1st, but will apply on all cars sold after January 1st. This means, of course, that persons who have bought Dodge Brothers cars since the first of the year will be entitled to a rebate, the amount of which is still unknown to the public. The official form of the Dodge Brothers announcement as it appeared in newspaper advertisements so timed that their appearance on the streets would be almost simultaneous with the verbal announcement at the Pennsylvania Hotel meeting, was as follows:

"Dodge Brothers will announce on February 1st, 1922, a substantial reduction in the prices of their cars effective January 1st, 1922."

In view of the many other definitely announced reductions by various automobile manufacturers it was instantly conceded in all quarters that Dodge Brothers had made a shrewd maneuver. All officials of the company, including Mr. Haynes, however, refused point blank to make any comment in addition to what was formally announced.

ADVENT OF NEW SIX-PLY 'FORD SIZE' CORD TIRES

"There must be in the neighborhood of five million light cars running in America today," states Henry Ebling, local Dayton Tire dealer.

"It has been estimated that these small cars waste an average of one-half gallon of gasoline a day or approximately $0.00,000 gallons a year.

"This waste is due to racing motors when starting, improperly adjusted carburetors, idling motors, and neglecting to coast down grades and up to stops.

"When you stop to consider that that 4,600,000 light cars running last year required over 20,000,000 tires to keep them in operation, and that most of these small size tires went to scrap heap long before their natural day, you can readily appreciate the tremendous loss small car owners suffered in tires as well as in gasoline.

"The advent of the six ply 30x3 1-2 cord tire is going a long way towards cutting down this tire loss, however. For example, the new Dayton six ply cord tire for small cars is absolutely guaranteed for 19,000 miles and it given any kind of fair treatment at all will outrun this guarantee by thousands of miles."

Black exhaust from the engine shows the fuel mixture is too rich in gasoline.

Special motor taxes average about $34 for every car.

Facts you should know when you buy a car

The question of greatest importance is not what you will be allowed for your old car but the price you pay for the new car and the value received.

You are money out if allowed $100 more for your old car, yet have to pay a $150 higher list price for a new car when the comparative value is not there.

A purchaser's loss is only postponed when trading allowances are made above a used car's real value. The deal that may appear most satisfactory to you in the beginning may prove to be the most expensive in the end.

No one receives anything gratuitously in this world—don't be misled by false allowances.

We believe that any sales policy which encourages the giving of fictitious values for used cars is an injustice to the public. We wish to establish definitely the fact that the Buick Motor Company has never followed this policy—rather has always based the price of its product upon actual costs and when costs came down correspondingly reduced the prices of its cars to the public without any camouflage whatsoever.

Oldfields Are High Grade Tires

Early in the career of Barney Oldfield, "Master Driver of the World," he suffered an accident through a collapsing tire. From that date, tires became his study—the race track his laboratory.

Various tire manufacturers built tires to his specifications. These, he wore out by the hundreds. After which, each was subjected to a rigid inspection. Any flaw was corrected. Each new tire was an improvement over its predecessor.

"I give my tires their full share of credit of my being here today," says Barney. During the last four years of my racing, I rode on tires that were, I proved to my satisfaction, the best and most trustworthy tires in the world."

Today, the Oldfield Tire Company is building for you, even better tires than those. Long ago they passed the experimental stage. They have merited the confidence of thousands of users. Run an Oldfield alongside your present choice. Compare them. We'll leave it to you.

WILLARD BATTERY RETAINS QUALITY

Low Prices Has Not Effectuated the Willard Battery High Standard

Most manufacturers in this day and age realize that buyers of their products are vitally interested in the prices asked, but there are few who want any article at any price which is below what for which a dependable product can be made.

"In the present tendency to look for reduced prices, care must be exercised," says H. W. L. Kilder, of The Lima Storage & Supply Company, who represents the Willard Storage Battery, "to make sure that former quality has been maintained. Such is the case, however, with the Willard Battery for which a new price schedule is announced, effective December 15."

"The Willard Battery," says Mr. Kilder, "has always been built to a standard and not to a price and the latest change is due solely to the lower cost of materials of which the battery is made. The after-the-war adjustments have about reached their lowest stage and prices for Willard Batteries in some instances are below the pre-war level."

OLD-FIELD TIRES

The Lima Tire & Supply Company, 244 South Elizabeth-st., has taken the distributing agency for Oldfield tires, along with Firestone tires and tubes.

One car load of Oldfield tires arrived in Lima Saturday and will be in stock ready for the opening of a two weeks' sale Monday morning.

"We selected Oldfield tires for their superior quality as well as low price," said R. A. Conroy, president of the Lima agency. "Barney Oldfield, ever since suffering an accident due to faulty tires on his racing car, has been perfecting a tire that would stand every road test. The new shipment of tires which go on sale Monday are directly from the Oldfield factory, the very tires that it has taken Oldfield many years to perfect."

Fred Fisher, former city safer, exchanges holiday greetings with Fred Fisher, Savannah, Ga. "He started it," said Fisher. "Neither of us ever saw the other."

W. B. Kirk, attorney, howling at the Y. M. C. A., didn't have time to eat his dinner first. So he had it brought to him at the howling alley. During the excitement of the contest friends who watched his howling ate up his dinner. "Consequently," reports a backer, "he finished the game with an average ex-

Oliver Kloss, attorney, Holmes block, thinks a letter delivered to him this week must have been delayed somewhere. "It was a political campaign letter," he says, "and asked me to work for the election of a candidate for Governor in 1920."

John Thompson, county commissioner, undertook to help his wife by washing the dishes, a sport he called pearl diving. He got so much soapy water on the floor that he slipped in it and went down with a crash. "I'd rather he wouldn't help," she says, "if he's got to shake the whole house and yell like he did."

Charles Hanes, game warden, had a Canadian guide as his guest for Christmas.

Lima fishermen at a downtown club told the guide about some of their catches.

"Just before I came away," said the guide, "I caught a 50-pound pickerel. But he fought so hard he lost 20 pounds, and when I got him out he weighed only 30."

Harry Jones, of the Deisel Co., went back to visit Wapakoneta, where he lived until he moved to

Lima. "The first man I met on the street whom I recognized, had forgotten me," says Jones. "The next two I met didn't know I had been away from Wapak."

KING WINTER RETURNS AGAIN TO HIS THRONE

Scarcity of After-Holiday Weddings Occasion of Comment, But Many Such Events are Planned for Early Spring—Social Affairs for the Week

KING WINTER has returned to occupy his throne again after a few weeks' leave of absence. He has brought with him the usual feeling of exhilaration, which accompanies a snow storm—even a very slight one. Despite all inducement, however, social life is rather dull and inactive.

The dearth of winter weddings has been rather remarkable this year, but Cupid has graciously assured a large number for the spring, promising to make amends for the recent lack. Society is now forced to be content and to make the most of the quiet days in other pursuits.

Several affairs of social prominence have been arranged for the week and it is very probable that others will be announced toward the middle of the week.

Tuesday afternoon, St. Martha's Guild of Christ Episcopal church will entertain with a benefit bridge in the parish house. Committee in charge includes Mrs. Ralph Leete, chairman; Mrs. A. G. Sawyer, Mrs. Carl Gates and Mrs. L. E. Ludwig.

FAME, LOVE, MATRIMONY! CUPID'S FAULT

MRS. W. G. HUTTON

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — This is the story about a sheriff who pursued a girl until he caught her. And then he "locked her up" for life.

But it's all Dan Cupid's fault, so let's let him tel about it. I watched Irene Galvin rise to fame as a musical comedy star. She was a pretty miss, and she sang her way into the hearts of audiences throughout the southwest. My heart was one of them.

Among the various committees of the City Federation of Women's clubs which will meet during the week will be the Americanization committee, Friday at 3 p. m. at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Charles A. Black, of W. Spring-st. Officers and department chairmen of the federation will meet Thursday at 4 p. m. at the public library.

Then I happened on Sheriff "Big Bill" Hutton, of Little Rock.

This was when he viewed Miss Galvin as leading lady with the Galvin Musical Comedy company. His interest in her interested me.

Miss Galvin shortly left Little Rock—but she returned at my beckoning. Oh, yes, I got them all—sooner or later.

Today Irene is Mrs. W. G. Hutton and she's starring as "the lady of the house" in "Big Bill's" home.

In celebration of the 11th birthday anniversary of her son, William, Mrs. H. L. Stone, of W. Elm-st., welcomed a group of guests at a happy gathering Friday evening. Games and contests, in which Helen Van Wormer and William Adler were successful, were the pastimes of the evening, and at a late hour a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

Those enjoying the evening included Winifred Bowsher, Morine Lovett, Kathleen Lutz, Lillian and Marguerite Linegar, May Miller, Helen and Alice Van Wormer, Dorothy McDermott, Dorothy Reish, William Adler, William Seaton, Richard Paul, Wilford Brunk, Paul and Lowell McDermott, Donald Welser, Robert Kennedy, Paul Peiffer and William Stone.

Mrs. H. C. Daugherty, of S. Jackson-st., was hostess to the members of the "You-Got-To-Go" club at her home, Friday afternoon. Such was the diversion, Mrs. John Barrick and Mrs. Harold Craig holding high scores. At 4:30 o'clock lunch was served by the hostess assisted by her daughter, Miss Ruth.

Next meeting will be held with Mrs. C. S. Steele, of 119 1-2 W. Market-st.

OHIO FEDERATION NEWS

(By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick)

It will be interesting news to Ohio club women that Minnesota will present the name of Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, of Minneapolis, for re-election as president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Winter, a member of the advisory council of the arms-limitation conference, has made a notable record as General Federation head and her administration is distinguished for many outstanding accomplishments that have attracted nationwide attention. The General Federation biennial is to be held at Chautauqua, N. Y., during the week of June 22.

Mrs. William H. Sharp, Columbus, past president of the Ohio Federation and State's director of the General Federation, who attended a General board meeting in Chicago, Jan. 3, 4, and 5, reports that one of the important matters disposed of was the decision to purchase a General Federation club home in Washington. This home is located on N. W. 10th street.

Another very interesting topic at the General board meeting, Mrs. Sharp says, was the Chautauqua biennial and the general discussion of plans for it.

Among the many things taken up was the candidacy of Miss Lucille Atcherson, Columbus, for a position in the United States diplomatic service. She was endorsed by the executive committee of the General Federation thru the efforts of Mrs. Sharp. Miss Atcherson served in overseas work with singular success during the World war.

NEW STATE PARLIAMENTARIAN
Mrs. Lillian Cole Bethel, No. 240 South Ohio-st., Columbus, has been appointed state parliamentarian for the Ohio federation. She succeeds Mrs. C. S. Selover, Cleveland, now state federation's president, the appointment of Mrs. Bethel being made by Mrs. Selover.

Mrs. Selover is kept extremely busy these days. January 7 she was the guest of honor of the Ashtabula county federation at Ashtabula. January 14 she goes to Berlin Heights as the guest of the Erie county federation; January 18, at Youngstown and January 28 at Lima.

OHIO FEDERATION NOTES

At the December federation meeting at Youngstown conducted at the Art gallery, Edwin Barlow Evans, teacher of English in the Y. M. C. A., discussed "Beacon Lights of Literature." He will also lecture at the February, March and April meetings. Distinguished speakers for a series of lectures for January to be held at Temple Road in Toledo include Will Irvin, Miss Ida Tarbell and Dr. Stephen S. Wise. At the January meeting it was announced by the president, Mrs. J. P. Ritter, that the annual luncheon is to be conducted January 18 at Hotel Ohio. Mrs. Cornelius S. Selover, Cleveland, state president, is to be the guest of honor and will give a message of greeting. Mrs. W. D. Long, Indianapolis, will relate Southern dialect stories. Members of the Monday Musical club will be in charge of the music.

Hundreds of clubs throughout the state spread Christmas cheer in countless ways, reports that keep coming in disclose. At Youngstown the Arcade club cleared the mortgage on the home of a crippled widow. Dr. Alice M. Johnston, of Columbus, chairman of the public health committee, wants every club in the state to observe some time this year "Cancer" week. "Have a doctor who has made a special study of cancer, if possible, come to your club and talk." Mrs. Johnston says, "Cancer is one of the most destructive diseases known. It kills 75,000 people annually in the entire country. You may secure pamphlet No. 1, 'What Everyone Should Know About Cancer,' by sending to No. 535 Dearborn-st., Chicago.

"Will not the health chairman of every club and federation send for this pamphlet and start a campaign to help fight cancer as we have fought tuberculosis?"

VAL HEIL & SON

POLLY AND PAUL
--AND PARIS

By Zoe Beckley

A STORM

At last, when, despite Crenshaw's comforting presence, Polly's nerves were at the snapping point, Paul's tall figure came into view—and close beside him, Violet.

"Well—nothing to be alarmed about!" sang out Paul. "Perfectly simple explanation. We caught a wireless from a vessel in distress to the north—an S. O. S. If we had been the nearest ship, the law of the sea would have made it imperative that we go to her rescue—putting us back twenty-four hours. The ship hove to, so as to be ready to change her course toward the Grand Banks. But they got word just now that another boat was closer by seventy miles—and she's gone to the aid of the other. So that's that. Listen—the engines are pounding again. We're off!"

Paul and Crenshaw, after a few moments' chat, went off together to the stoke-room. Between Polly and Violet passed the flash of hostility that follows a feminine rivalry over some man.

"I told you it was nothing dangerous," said Polly's eyes. "And you've got to stop fixating with my husband!"

"I told you it was nothing serious," said Violet. "And I was in the tug-of-war over your husband!"

They seemed to read each other's thought.

"You'll be glad when the voyage is over, I take it," said Violet in a tone which added "You poor little mouse, who thought all a woman had to do was to marry him to make a man hero for life."

"Glad—why?" snapped Polly. "I've enjoyed every moment of the trip. Even this episode of the ship stopping, why, it was almost amusing to see how excited some people got over nothing."

"I suppose you mean me. Well, I assure you, Mrs. Dawson, there are times when mere serenity is proof of inexperience if not—stupidity."

They were both angry and overwrought. Polly's claws, usually softly sheathed, now flew.

"There are some experiences I prefer not to have. As for stupidity, I am not so stupid as to fling myself at another woman's husband, to his intense distaste—and boredom."

"I hadn't noticed it," Miss Rand stifled an elaborate yawn. "On the contrary, I thought he seemed interested."

"Paul is very polite," scored Polly, unwinding herself from her wraps and preparing to flee, before she burst into tears. "I suppose in Paris—where life is so free and worth-while, everyone's feelings are frankly expressed. If you'll excuse me I'll go down for a nap."

Paul came into the dim light of their cabin a few moments later.

"Polly! Polly, dear, I say, whatever have you been doing to Violet?"

"Hello—why my own darling, what's the matter? Tell me, dearest!"

He had not seen her lying there on her bed, hair in disarray, slim shoulders shaking. Now he bent over her tenderly.

Polly answered only with renewed sobbing, pushing him away as she caught her breath convulsively. He had never seen her cry. . . . He had never dreamed she could push him away. . . . He knelt in an agony, one hand drawing her to him, the other groping for his handkerchief to wipe her tears.

"Go away! Go to talk to your Miss Rand. She interests you—I don't." (A gust of sobs.) "I'm not a celebrity like her—a writer—and a singer and everything. I'm only a stupid—inexperienced."

Paul shook her gently. "Polly—you're upset, nervous. You know I love every hair of your head—the ground you walk on—every breath you draw. I love—"

She twisted from him. "Go away! Go back to—her! I want to be alone—alone—or I shall scream!"

Paul left the cabin, closing the door softly after him.

BLUE EYES
I am very glad you are a sensible girl and that you really realize the folly and foolishness of it all.

The only way in which you can start over is simply to resolve to live up to your decision in this matter. Go with the boys and be friendly with them, but do not permit them these little familiarities which cheapen a girl. If your friends become apparently "peevish" when you refuse to permit them to kiss you goodnight, don't worry about it. They will respect you more in the end. Stick to your resolution. "Blue Eyes" you will profit in the end.

Dear Miss Smart:
My little girl seven years old is getting on very well. Is there anything you know of that will kill it before it is larger? It is spoiling her looks.

MRS. M.
Consult a physician. He can advise you properly. It is not wise for one to interfere with such things.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Mix Fruits and Cereals
In Breakfast Dishes

(BY SISTER MARY)

The fruits and cereals you serve at breakfast may often be combined in such a way that both are improved.

Cereals need long cooking no matter what the directions on the package read. Start the cereal the night before when starting dinner. Then cook in the double boiler while getting dinner and until the dishes are washed. In the morning reheating is all that will be necessary.

If dried fruit is added, add it the last hour of cooking. Always have the water boiling and salted before the cereal is sifted in, and stir constantly for the first 10 minutes of cooking directly over the fire.

Allow a scant teaspoonful of salt to every cup of cereal.

OATMEAL WITH RAISINS
One cup oatmeal, 2 1/2 cups boiling water, 1 scant teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup seeded raisins.

Put water in top of double boiler with salt. When boiling briskly add the oatmeal slowly without stopping the bubbling. If the grains settle stir to prevent burning.

Cook over hot water for 3 hours and add raisins which have been carefully washed and dried. In the morning reheat and serve very hot. There are so many wheat cereals on the market that one has a wide choice. The same rule holds with these, they must be well cooked.

However, wheat cooks in a shorter time than other grains and may be entirely cooked in the morning. Stoned and chopped dates are delicious added to any cooked wheat cereal just before serving.

GRAHAM MUSH

One cup graham flour, 1 1/2 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup stewed prunes.

Add salt to water. When boiling, add flour slowly. Cook over the fire 45 minutes, stirring to prevent burning. Add stewed prunes, stoned and cut in pieces, just before removing from the fire.

HOMINY GRITS WITH EGGS

One cup hominy, 4 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup eggs.

Add salt to boiling water and stir in hominy. Cook directly over the fire 10 minutes. Then cook in a double boiler for two or three hours.

Wash eggs and cut in small pieces for the last hour of cooking. In the morning reheat to serve. Hominy grits are fine hominy. Coarse hominy or samp is used as a vegetable rather than a cereal.

Baked apples are delicious filled with cereal and served with sugar and cream for breakfast.

When fruit is combined with the cereal no other fruit is necessary. Crisp toast should be served rather than hot muffins or rolls.

LETTERS TO LOVERS

—BY WINONA WILCOX—

Tragedy invades many homes because of human inability to consider any but the personal side of heart problems. For example, the tempted wife who writes the following never once refers to her husband's rights in the case.

"I have a beautiful home, two children, some luxuries, including a car. Nevertheless, I am very much in love with a man not my husband. His divorce case is in court but not on my account. He has two children.

"My husband has learned about my feelings and offers to release me, to divide our property and give me the custody of our children."

"I can't decide. Never would I have supposed that I should care for a man who has practically nothing in the world. For what the 'other man' possesses must go to the support of his family, I suppose."

"In my married life there always has been some vague dissatisfaction. I have taken it as proof that I did not care sufficiently for my husband. He is good but not at all handsome."

"Now I am wondering if I will be happier with the other man?"

Because the wife has overlooked her husband's angle of this triangle, it is not well to make her think about it.

She ought to realize that her husband probably doesn't care to have her in his home while she is so obsessed with another man. The husband has some rights even if he is not good looking, but she disregards them and perceives only the power and the pull of her own emotions.

I see in this letter an indirect presentation of the fact that a good deal of the present matrimonial unrest comes from our habit of too much exacting love, or accepting it as a one-sided affair.

A bride expects the original intensity of married life to last forever and when she finds her big romantic dream is only a fleeting factor, she becomes "vaguely dissatisfied."

USE "DANDERINE"

35 cents buys a bottle of "Danderine." Within ten minutes after the first application you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, helping your hair to grow long, thick and luxuriant.

Girls! Girls! Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, thin, scraggy. A single application of delightful Danderine will double the beauty and radiance of your hair and make it look twice as abundant.

listled" and concludes she never could have loved her husband anyway. She has missed something, she thinks.

She has. She has missed what she might have learned had she ever considered her husband's side of the marriage contract.

Had she married any other man, had her husband married any other woman, some kind of dissatisfaction would have ensued, different, of course, but not to be denied.

Now suppose that this woman is freed by divorce to marry the divorced man. After a few months of passionate romance, their love will sink to the dead level of which she now complains.

Meanwhile she will have robbed her children of a good father and in exchange will have given them a step-father who did not hesitate to put his own offspring out of his life.

The best of all curses for such folly would be her enforced association with the "other man." Then any outsiders easily could foretell her for her future.

FILM OFFERINGS EXTRAORDINARY SCHEDULED FOR ALL LIMA THEATRES

CREAM OF SHOWINGS FOR WEEK

Productions From Best Studios, With Artists of Highest Class
in the Leading Roles

Calendar Discloses Plays That You Cannot Help But Like—
List is Comprehensive

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

A week of the extraordinary is ahead for the photographic eye feasts as "Over the Hill," "The Call of the North" and "The Mysterious Rider" should quicken interest of the film fans.

Will Carlton's beautiful poems were the basis on which William Fox based the sensation of the year, "Over the Hill" which opens an extended engagement today at the Sigma Theatre. Mary Carr, in the role of Mrs. Benton, gives to filmdom the most beautiful characterization of the age, one that you will not soon forget.

The Lyric's bill of fare for the ensuing week includes three meritorious offerings, the first of which, opening today, is a dramatization of Zane Grey's popular novel, "The Mysterious Rider," in which Claire Adams, Robert McKim and Carl Gantvoort have the leading roles. Starting on Wednesday, the Lyric offers Constance Talmadge in "Scandal," a sparkling comedy drama; Friday and Saturday brings the beautiful and placid Mabel Ballin in "Jane Eyre," produced by her noted husband, Hugo Ballin.

Two excellent film plays are scheduled for presentation this week at the Faurot. The first of these, "The Call of the North," opens a two day engagement today. Jack Holt, long featured player, attains the rank of a star in this production.

"Footlights," starring Miss Elsie Ferguson, is the second attraction at the Faurot, opening a four day run on Tuesday. Miss Ferguson, in this play, has the able support of Reginald Denny.

The majestic main feature today is "The Great Adventure" starring Lionel Barrymore. Another event of importance during the forthcoming week is the showing of the official pictures of the recent Dempsey-Carpentier match, first times shown in Ohio, at the Orpheum, starting on Monday.

The Faurot's Pictures

YOU liked Jack Holt immensely when he appeared at the Faurot last week in "After the Show," and you are going to like him better than ever when you see him at the same theatre today in his first starring vehicle, "The Call of the North."

Long before Stewart Edward White's novel, "Conjuror's House," was filmed, George Broadhurst turned it into a play which successfully appealed to followers of the legitimate. Now Paramount has done it for the screen and done it very well, too, according to all advance report, for the resources of the screen in presenting a story of the northwest country far exceed those of the spoken drama.

The story lies in to with the Hudson's Bay company, trapping, and the "free traders" who were thriving in the side of that powerful organization. Jack Holt plays the part of one of the free lance trappers. Madge Bellamy is the daughter of the despotic factor and Noah Beery plays her father. These three are the outstanding figures in one of ever written, staged or filmed. Holt's ever written, staged or filmed Holt's introduction as a Paramount star is made under the most auspicious conditions. The feature, which is scheduled for Sunday and Monday only, will be preceded by Kinograms and a Bruce scenic picture.

Elsie Ferguson, who comes to the Faurot for four days, starting Tuesday in the Paramount production of Rita Weikman's "Footlights," recycles the pinnacle of her screen career in this brilliant production, bringing to her role the fineness of her stage and screen experience.

Her role, which portrays an American who is introduced on the New York stage as a Russian actress, challenges the best of Miss Ferguson's art. In one scene she gives an imitation of Eddie Foy and in another she has a fencing bout. All thru the picture there are two personalities at play, the one of a puritanical New England girl, and that of the pampered Russian actress.

"Footlights" tells the story of a vaudeville entertainer who becomes the most famous actress in America. Her rise to fame, the unique in every way, is made thru struggles, hardships and sacrifices. To reach the heights, Lizzie Parsons had to give up her friends and past associations and lose her identity in that of the Russian. Miss Ferguson's interpretation of this role makes "Footlights" one of the outstanding pictures of the year. Reginald Denny, Marc MacDermott and Octavia Handworth head a brilliant supporting cast. Accompanying features will include Kinograms and Tony Sarg's "Almanac."

The Majestic Pictures

LIONEL BARRYMORE, a member of the famous Barrymore family of artists, has a most unusual role in "The Great Adventure," his newest starring vehicle, which opens a two day engagement today at the Majestic Theatre. It is a fascinating picture that sparkles with unforgettable comedy.

The story concerns Prim Farill, noted artist, who fears women and publicity above all else. He is pursued by a celebrity-hunting woman, Sophia Entwistle, who, discovering him in Warsaw, inveigles him into an engagement. To escape her clutches, the artist flees to London, where he discovers the sudden death of his valet, Leek. He determines to hide his identity by posing as the dead valet, and Leek is buried as Prim Farill, the great artist, in Westminster Abbey.

A series of complications and comedy situations arise which prove that Mr. Barrymore is at his best in this delicious comedy offering. Doris Rankin and Octavia Broke handle the feminine roles to great effect.

Next Wednesday, the doors of the Majestic will be thrown open to the general public, and Manager Henry Michael again extends a hearty welcome to every man, woman and child who has the wherewithal to attend movies, to be his guest at his theatre. No admission or war tax will be charged, and a first-rate program of pictures will be in effect. On Thursday night, the weekly Country Store will be in progress.

The Rialto Pictures

BUCK JONES, one of the cleverest cowboy actors and greatest riders on the screen, is coming here in his latest William Fox picture, "The One-Man Trail." He will open at the Rialto theatre today and tomorrow.

The story revolves around the elopement of Buck's sister in the play. Buck follows to bring her back, falls in love on the way, and meets with some thrilling and humorous incidents and accidents. Buck and his horse, Blondy, give some fine entertainment in many scenes. The cowboys also give an exhibition of some "treat 'em rough" stuff in a far-west send-off to Buck.

Beatrice Burnham is Jones' leading woman. The story is by Jack Strumwasser.

Playgoers who attend the Rialto theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday will go into action with the New York police on one of the most thrilling man-hunts in the vivid history of the department. The story to be screened is "A Daughter of the Law," a Universal photodrama; Carmel Myers, the famous star of many successful Universal productions, does her most spectacular dramatic work in the starring role.

The Sigma Pictures

"OVER THE HILL," will be shown at the Sigma Theatre today, when it will begin a weeks engagement. This picture is heralded as one of the most sensational successes in film drama of the last decade—the New York run of the picture still continuing uninterruptedly in Broadway, where it has been delighting nearly a million people since it was first shown last September.

Making a real attraction of "Over the Hill" is regarded by old-line theatrical men as another indication of the great inroads motion pictures have made in the past few years on the so-called legitimate theatres of the country. Managers and producers now view the motion picture not merely as a competitor of the gallery and balcony, but as a very serious rival of the most peculiar stage stars and largest stage productions.

"Over the Hill" was produced by William Fox, America's foremost producer of film features, who has amply demonstrated his understanding of the popular mind and heart in his selection of stories and poems for screen adaptation. "Over the Hill" was made as a film play by taking the best heart interest story out of Will Carlton's poems and incorporating it in a scenario of exceptional strength and beauty. The picture will be produced here, exactly as it is now being presented at the Broadhurst Theatre, New York City.

The story tells of a mother love

divine—a love which prompts the mother of a brood of six to make every effort to undergo endless weariness and mental suffering in order that her little ones may be provided with comfort. Comes age and the departure, one by one, of her children. Thus left alone, she endeavors to make her home with one or another of her offsprings, only to discover she is "in the way."

The manner in which happiness eventually comes to her is shown in one of the most beautiful climaxes ever presented in a dramatic work. The scenes of the story having to do with the children before reaching maturity are rich in comedy situations and have provoked much hearty laughter.

Mary Carr, who plays the mother in "Over the Hill" has contributed a masterpiece of screen historicism that will live in the memories of those who will see her long after most of the noted screen characterizations have been forgotten.

Pythian Minstrel Jubilee

ALL that is good in minstrelsy will be offered when the Pythian Minstrel Jubilee is presented at the Faurot on Feb. 1, 2. The rehearsals are well under way and the production gives promise of being the best ever given in this city. The greatest array of local talent that has ever been gathered together is helping to put the Jubilee over.

Prominent among them are J. Allen Grubb, Rolla Mikessell, who is making his first appearance in this type of production; Dale Marshall, the famous tenor; Joe Lopez, Jack Pearl, peer of all interlopers, and three celebrated black face artists.

Happy Kooch, Bill Allgire, Fran Clark, Chuck Hagerman and a supporting company of 100 voices. The most beautiful of scenery and gorgeous costumes abound thruout the entire production.

The Lyric Pictures

THREE important screen productions are scheduled for presentation at the Lyric theatre during the forthcoming week, and this, coupled with the fact that ten percent of the Lyric's gross receipts are to be donated to the city's needy, should presage a busy week at that theatre.

Zane Grey's virile story "The Mysterious Rider" one of the most popular pieces of fiction in recent years is the feature picture today at the Lyric.

The story deals with the love affair of Columbine—ably and artistically portrayed by Claire Adams, and Wilson Moore (Carl Gantvoort) but there's a little sub-plot fun enough and complete enough to be a comedy in itself, which winds thru the main story. Benjamin Hampton, the producer, has assembled a highly talented congregation of artists to play the roles and each and every one hits the mark. Robert McKim has the part of "Wade" and makes every moment count.

"The Mysterious Rider" has a plot that is fascinating; a splendid moral teaching; a cast par excellence; a climax that will leave you breathless, but satisfied. Every element, you will agree, that goes to make a picture popular.

The second program picture on the Lyric's bill opens on Wednesday and is Constance Talmadge's "Scandal," in which the adored comedienne of the screen has the role of a high spirited and capricious society girl. She is her usual happy, and amusing self and assures her admirers a photoplay of great entertainment qualities.

"Jane Eyre," from the famous novel by Charlotte Bronte, is the week-end attraction at the Lyric, opening on Friday. In this superb production, directed by Hugo Ballin, the principal role is in the hands of Mabel Ballin, whose charming personality and quaint appeal will endear her to thousands. Beautiful rolling English countryside and picturesque estates form the background for this genuinely meritorious film.

As a weekly program, isn't that splendid?

VAUDEVILLE AT THE ORPHEUM

Due to the continual demand of a strictly vaudeville bill, Manager Shaw has made arrangements to play a six act vaudeville program today only. A banner bill is promised vaudeville fans. The acts that will make up today's dandy entertainment are as follows: Farley's Funny Fellows, just off the Kieth circuit; Fielding and Boomer, syncopated comedy; Daley and La Pearl, singing, talking, dancing; Farrell and Florence, 300 lbs. of comedy; Chas. Diegan, the human knot, and the Famous Russells, in circus a la carte. The prices for today's shows are 22, 23 and 44c. There will be three performances, 2:20, 7:20 and 9:00. All seats will be reserved at all three performances today. The Orpheum management announces that starting at tomorrow's matinee and for the first three days of the week the Dempsey-Carpentier official fight pictures will be shown. This is the first showing in the state of Ohio and a large attendance is predicted. Thursday, Friday and Saturday another dandy six act vaudeville will be presented. Country will be given on Thursday night this week instead of Wednesday. The comedians will be given honor of conducting the evening store. Friday as usual will be a day of free matinee and Friday pictures will be shown. This is the first showing in the state of Ohio and a large attendance is predicted.

JAZZ REVUE BOOKED FOR THE FAUROT

Mamie Smith's Musical Melange
To Visit Lima Saturday, For Return Engagement

ONE of the most brilliant and scintillating musical revues of the season is booked for appearance at Faurot Opera House Saturday, matinee and night. This is Mamie Smith's renowned Jazz Revue, which many will remember as it appeared in this city last season. The Mamie Smith Jazz Revue has enjoyed a most successful tour throughout the season, and it was only by special arrangement with producers that Mr. Cunningham was able to bring it to the Opera House for one day. The program, besides being the very cream of jazz entertainment, includes symphony numbers and instrumental hits galore. It has the fire and pep that only a Mamie Smith company can produce and in its entirety is one of the best things of the season. Seats may be ordered now for this famous revue.

Dempsey-Carpentier Fight

THOSE who inveigh against the supposed "brutality" of boxing, that "manly art" of self-defense, of which the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt was so ardent an exponent, should by all means not miss the opportunity to see the wonderful motion-picture record that was taken under the direction of Fred C. Quimby, of the now historic glove-contest for the heavyweight championship of the world, between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier, which will shown at the Orpheum Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

These pictures, showing every move that was made inside that fateful ring will undoubtedly reinforce the arguments, pro and con, as to the respective merits of the contestants. It is the hero of Lens, looking much more like a high school athlete than the champion heavyweight of France, who leaps from his corner at the bell and flashes his rapier-like left fist to the face of the champion of America. In spite of his apparent bulk and grimmer muscle, Jack Dempsey proved himself as agile and as panther-like as his graceful opponent. There are wonderful "close-ups" of both champions. There is a close view of Georges after he climbed into the ring and is, with clasped hands above his head, answering the enthusiastic salutations of the crowd. The happy and boylike smile with which his image always will be associated in American minds is on his face, and that inviting smile brings forth the tribute of applause. There is a close-up of the American champion as he enters the ring. Not only is Jack Dempsey unsmiling, but his brows are ominously bent, and the one swift glance he throws at the corner where his opponent sits is all menacing. You can see from these views of the principal actors in this notable contest how true was the simile of Irwin Cobb, which likened the contest to a battle between a rapier and a bludgeon. How the bludgeon won; in spite of the alert and undismayed bravery of the rapier, these pictures show.

Amateur Night Successful

SOUTH Lima's first amateur night of vaudeville, given at the Majestic theatre on Thursday evening, under the promotion of S. Otis Dotson, was extremely well attended and thoroughly pleased the audience. These amateur contests will now be a regular feature at the Majestic every other Thursday.

The Misses Coyita and Helen Armstrong, Alice Evelyn Dotson and Margaret Cleveland showed great talent and each little performer was awarded a prize. Gladys and Agnes Nonnemacher, in a singing act, greatly pleased the audience, while Hazel Beatty and Madeline Ruff, in a presentation of "Ma" drew much applause. Misses Laura Beatty, Nina Barnet Vera Beatty and Hazel Ruff, offering dance numbers, were extremely well-applauded.

Julius Carney and Rhea Duck, in a duet singing act won the most applause while a hula dance by Gerald Rink, girl impersonator was cleverly done. Miss E. Forrest, Ted Gardner and Harry Hall also pleased.

The MYSTERIOUS RIDER

ZANE GREY'S POWERFUL STORY

WITH ROBERT M'KIM, CLAIRE ADAMS AND CARL GANTVOORT

FOR eighteen years Hell-Bent Wade had searched for his daughter. And then he met her at the wilderness grave of the mother who had given her life on the night that Wade tried to protect his home from the raid by Ed. Smith's murderous gang. Hell-Bent was a name that struck terror to the hearts of wrongdoers. For Hell-Bent never missed his man. And then came the day that he met face to face the man who had killed his wife.

Picture to yourself this situation that Zane Grey's virile brain has conceived. What an over-flowing cup of happiness for a man who has lived eighteen years praying for the return of his daughter. But Zane Grey is a writer who builds many such situations in the course of one of his stirring stories of the west, and "The Mysterious Rider" is no exception to the rule.

IF YOU LOVE ACTION, ROMANCE AND ADVENTURE ALONG WITH SCENIC SETTINGS UNSURPASSED YOU'LL DOTE ON THIS PICTURE

Zane Grey never wrote a story that moved at a faster pace than this. His popularity as a writer is not accidental. He gives the people what they want.

IT'S A GREAT AUTHOR'S MASTERPIECE — HIS VERY GREATEST WORK

It's a story of smiles and tears. Of clouds and sunshine. It is a drama that will hold you spell-bound wherein a single thread of love is woven into a mighty band of devotion.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

THE first half of the first month of a new year has brought renewed optimism into the field of business, and groundwork is being laid for a resumption of industry, on rail, in shop, in office and store, and on the land. Basic conditions are sound, with prices still downward and labor less resisting to the adjustment which is inevitable.

The impetus to general prosperity will probably come from the down-trodden railroads themselves in a buying era all but ready to break forth at any time. Lima is a railroad town, in the final analysis; its general shops of two trunk lines; its trainmen, its locomotive works and its dependent industry of these works, make the prosperity of railroads Lima's prosperity. Today American railroads need 10,000 locomotives; contracts for some of these are ready to be let when financing and labor controversies are settled. The sales department of our locomotive works is one of the best in the country and is on the job. Putting its common stock on a dividend basis in the face of a poor year ahead, is evidence that our plant will get its full share of these 10,000 locomotives when the time comes. And it may come over night.

In other ways, securing of one new factory; possible addition of two others; assurances that the tank car plant will be built, are signs in the skies spelling good times for you and for me. A building orgy will follow in the wake of the first earmarks of the happenings here forecast; we will need homes; we will need enlarged retail stores; we will need additional transportation; we will need more motor cars for more people, and any pessimist can see this in the year 1922, if he will but look.

The next two months will be hard-fought, money will remain tight, business men's smiles will not be ultra-wide, but it is just the time to prepare for the flood of prosperity and to be able to take care of the deluge of profits which will follow.

If you have money, buy some real estate, vacant or improved; if you have more money buy up-town business property or sites; if you are in business, clean up, brush up and stock up. The time to buy is now, if you would reap on the harvest.

THE REVOLT HAS STARTED

GATHERED in Chicago one night last week was an assemblage of Americans headed by no less personages than Ex-Governor Dunne, Illinois, and United States Senator A. O. Stanley. It was a protest meeting against present prohibition laws which cannot and are not being enforced; but are giving thousands of politicians jobs as inspectors and clerks to inspectors; trampling "the home is my castle" theory into the mud, and causing disrespect to all other laws on our statute books.

The curse of the old American saloon and the damning examples of sodden drunkenness were probably less injurious and not as murderous as the conditions which exist in America to-day. Our own press wires carried a story this week showing 103 men and women—American citizens—murdered by the bootlegging poison era now existing in this country. Booze itself never had such a ten-day record. Yet the thinking voters brought about prohibition to make the world better, not to strew corpses broadcast. And innocent, if unintelligent and unwilling, victims of wood alcohol, and other ghastly concoctions guaranteed by our government chemists to cause blindness in 24 hours, death, if not blindness; and for the best of so-called home-brews and moon shine, stomachs slowly eaten thru and bringing death within two years.

Today we have in free America a bureaucracy comparable to the unlimited powers of a Louis XIV. And as formidable. It requires strength of character for men of the class as are those Chicagoans to come out in the open and appeal for a change; but they do it not alone for this one condition brought about by $0.009 inspectors, but to get our government back to its place in the sun, with control released from railways and other industries, and our people back to individual initiative.

The present Congress or even Administration will never do it, nor will it come until thousands more are insulted by snoopers, and thousands others die, victims of poison hounds, leeches and parasites which this enforcement army, spending millions, ignores, in order to get in front of a movie camera to be seen bursting open barrels of contraband, justifying their jobs.

LIMA'S OLDEST FIRMS

THERE is considerable romance in the development and progress of Lima business firms and manufactories. The number of men who have been engaged in the same line of business here for 20 years and more is surprisingly large. The record of the rise of some of the substantial citizens of Lima reads almost like fiction.

Careful methods, constancy, giving and expecting a fair deal and sticking steadily to their calling, has resulted in success attending their efforts. These men deserve praise and commendation. They have built businesses that have stood the test of time. In many instances, the originators are still at the head of the stores they established. In others, control has passed to worthy hands.

A special section goes out today with The Lima News, carrying a comprehensive resume of the activities of a large number of the older business institutions of the city. The story they tell is one of progress, in business and in history. No pains have been spared to make this special section far-reaching in its scope and accurate in detail. Its contents are confined to firms that have been in existence for 20 years or more in Lima. Perusal of your favorite newspaper will not be complete unless you thoroughly scan the pages devoted to conveying this special message—an offering of facts concerning the men who have been part of Lima business life for a great number of years.

It is not given to every man who establishes an enterprise to be spared for a fifth of a century, as its active head, but there are numerous instances of that character in this city. In some cases, the men who launched in business more than 30 years ago are still actively managing the big stores that grew with time from small beginnings.

The Lima News congratulates the men who have thus won distinction in this city's business life. It extends best wishes for continued success. Lima is one of the best cities in Ohio. The older business men had much to do with its development. They are still strong for Lima and while younger hands may perform the tasks, theirs are the minds that plan the work to be done.

THE WAY OF CROOKS

INFORMATION has been received here concerning the arrest of a notorious bandit wanted in Lima and a score of other places. He was taken while attempting a hold-up.

This man was the leader of a desperate band of criminals. He spent several months in this city and, altho it is not known that they committed robberies here, they made this their headquarters while preying upon surrounding territory.

The loot taken by this gang, several of which already are serving time in penal institutions, was immense. They probably secured enough in their daring robberies to make them all rich, but they were not satisfied. They continued their unlawful game until one by one they have been captured. Now the leader, supposed to be the most cunning of the bunch, has fallen into the hands of the law and will spend many weary years behind prison bars if he gets his just desert.

A life of crime does not pay. Sooner or later the day of reckoning comes and with it the severe penalties society imposes on those who stray from the paths of honesty. The game cannot be beaten. It has been tried for centuries. Outlaws may escape for a time, but they must pay sooner or later.

The honest way may be rough at times; the load may become heavy and temptation to forsake it will present itself, but those who battle thru the obstacles, the rewards come more slowly, will find peace and happiness at the end instead of shame and felons' cells.

The Girl at the Peak of the Lenine-Trotsky Triangle

Nikolai Lenine, Soviet Despot and Willing Slave.

Infatuated by the Fighting Beauty Who Led the Battalion of Death, Russia's Despots Invest This Young Adventuress With More Power Than Rasputin Ever Dared to Assume

LEON TROTSKY crouched in his office in the Kremlin in historic Moscow. He was deeply absorbed in his work. Outside the door stood roughshod military sentries, their vacant expressions denoting the slight interest they took in their duties. Trotsky stirred uneasily. A frown crossed his face. Suddenly he looked up—amusement, even horror written on his features.

"Olga!" he exclaimed, "you? I thought you were a ghost! How did you get in here?"

Facing him stood a pretty, athletic girl of 25, plainly dressed, yet distinguished looking. In her hand she held a revolver. She laid the weapon on Trotsky's desk, near his right hand. Trotsky drew back—he was not afraid—just uncomfortable, for he can fathom the intentions of a woman—and a Russian woman especially?

"Comrade," said the girl slowly, each word biting into the puzzled brain of the Soviet leader. "I see through your schemes as easily as I entered your office, despite the soldier guard. Here is my present to you—that, or good behavior."

She turned, opened the door and left the astonished Trotsky sitting silent—staring after the wrath-woman.

Before his mental vision there came a picture of himself, the center of a group of men plotting against that other Soviet dictator, Nikolai Lenine. And into the group there crept the girl—Olga Gorokoff, the beloved of Lenine and perhaps loving him.

Yes, he had plotted against Lenine; that was true. But how did Lenine get wind of it? How, the girl? And what did she mean by the weapon—the implied threat?

Outside Trotsky's door stood Olga Gorokoff, looking at her watch. At the end of five minutes she left the Kremlin and drove to a small house far away from the stress and strife of governmental activities. The door opened as she approached. Within stood Lenine, dictator of the Russians, in whose hands lies the power of life or death for millions of human beings. When he saw the girl his eyes smiled. He opened his arms and crushed her to him.

"Beloved Olga!" he cried. "Why do you risk your valuable life for me?"

"You?" half sneered the girl. "I work for Russia first!"

"Then you do not love me?" asked Lenine dolefully.

"I think I do, you foolish child; but my country first—and even you must rank second to that."

Then she related the incident with Trotsky.

"He was too weak to kill himself—therefore, he is too weak to kill you," she said.

Olga Gorokoff is to-day the actual "boss" of Soviet Russia. She is neither a female Rasputin nor a Catherine nor a Joan of Arc. She is a bit of each, yet more than all put together. For she rules with the spirit of Joan, the fanaticism of Rasputin and the gold-blooded ferocity of Catherine. Yet, with all that, she is essentially a woman, feminine, pretty and—a woman who loves and loves to be loved.

"She Laid the Weapon on Trotsky's Desk, Near His Right Hand."

She is a fanatic communist. Once launched on her favorite topic and she appears to lose control of herself. Her eyes flash, her voice is choked with emotion—she flails the air with sweeping gestures to emphasize her words and phrases.

And when she is not talking communism she rarely talks—which is amazing in a woman, as is fairly well known to most men. She talks only to Lenine, whom she adores, and who, in turn, worships her. Between them they rule Russia, but Olga is the more powerful personality. For she rules not only Russia but Lenine as well. She is his mentor, his controlling spirit—his powerful predominating other self.

Olga was born in Central Russia, the granary of the vast land of the former Czars. Her people were rich in land, yet poor in actual cash. From the first she felt the strength of autocracy—or oppression. In her teens she fought for free speech, for free thought, for freedom. Several times she felt the gloom of prison cells. Once, too, the sting of the lash fell upon her bare back.

And she vowed vengeance—terrible revenge upon the Central Power which held her a slave. But worse was in store for her. One of the perennial revolts with which Russian history is littered broke out. Towns were burned, hundreds were shot down by the Czar's soldiers. Olga and her parents were driven on to the steppes in the middle of winter—into the cold and snow, without clothing enough, without shelter from the biting winds, without food. Rugged though they were, exposure proved too much, and her parents died miserably—dropping by the frozen wayside, victims of famine and cold.

And Olga never forgot!

A human wreck, she staggered into Moscow just as the war was turning against her beloved land. Hindenburg's Prussians had thrown the Russian hordes into the marshes at the battle of the Mazurian Lakes, in East Prussia. Russia had been betrayed by her then War Minister. The call to arms rang throughout the dominions of the White Czar. Olga was the first to respond. She joined the famous Battalion of Death, whose members—all women—vowed never to return to their homes until the last invader had been driven from Russian soil.

The Battalion of Death fought bravely. Gradually Olga rose from the ranks until she was named colonel in command. And between battles, when the roar of guns was lulled, Olga preached communism. Autocracy was being undermined at Petrograd the while, and suddenly Lenine flashed across the political horizon.

Olga marched her battalion to the then capital and presented herself to Lenine.

"Two thousand women heroes are at your service to defend you," she said. Lenine looked at the slender girl in amazement. He had heard of her daring exploits and had pictured her as a virago, a cross between a Cossack and a cave-woman. She was pretty, had charming manners and eyes—such eyes!

So Lenine, like lesser mortals, capitulated to feminine beauty.

And Olga, being intensely human, fell, in a measure, in love with the Soviet despot.

The love affair soon became the talk of Moscow, and it was freely predicted that it would result in Lenine's downfall. But the prophets were mistaken, for Olga ruled wisely and well. She not only suggested many important things, she dictated, she planned, ordered—she was "the whole works." Only one thing she would not consider—she declined pointblank to marry Lenine.

"I love you devotedly—I have proven that," she said, "but I must continue marriedly free to work for communism. I cannot be hampered by household affairs and by the possibility of bearing children. I am at your service so long as you serve Russia and communism. I love you, yes—but—be true to yourself and to Russia.

They have not been married, but all Soviet Russia knows of their love. She is the only human being who knows how to manage the recalcitrant Lenine. She is the only one who has gained her way against his wishes and desires. And, generally she has been in the right in her intuitive deductions, as even Lenine has acknowledged.

All the day long and far into the night Olga Gorokoff works with Lenine. She alone has constant entree to the Soviet dictator. She alone knows his secrets, his intentions. He dictates to Russia, but she dictates to Russia's dictator!

Time and again she has proven her amazing ability to deal with men. Not that she relies upon her feminine charms—her unusual beauty. She is as cold as ice when dealing with men who oppose Lenine or her. Time and again she has gone to barracks where the officers had found Red troops weakening. She has faced the would-be revolters and with fervid words and thrilling phrases has convinced them that Russia's future was in their hands—that the welfare of the fatherland was within their keeping.

And as she has controlled the common soldiers, so has she controlled their dictator. Time and again she has stifled a semi-hysterical outburst on the part of Lenine. Waving his arms wildly, uttering almost incoherent sentences, Lenine has stopped short—has resumed his sane poise, when a word came from his beloved Olga. Inflamed by the heat of the moment, he has turned with loving smile to the young girl who is in reality his better self.

He is insanely jealous of her. It is known that four young officers went to their deaths because they looked lovingly upon Olga's rare beauty. The saddest case was that of Feodor Petroff, lieutenant in the Forty-third Red regiment. He was young, of good family and loyal to Lenine's cause. He served as liaison officer and in that way became acquainted with Olga.

He worshipped her at a respectful distance, never hoping that his love would or could be returned. He was at the beck and call of the girl, who gave him her friendship in a frank and honest way. She made use of him at all hours of the day or night—he was a happy slave.

Various Types of the "Beauty Arch" Foot.

Woman's "Perfect Curve" Found in the Sole of Her Foot

Two Classical Dancers Exhibiting the Natural Beauty of the Foot Arch.

SCIENCE has discovered at last the perfect curve—the ideal "line of beauty."

Of course, it is a "feminine" curve, for even cold science admits the superiority of woman in the realm of beauty.

But where was it found? One might have guessed anything, from the stately torso of the Venus de Milo to the slim leg of the latest dancing star. But who would ever have suspected the truth, that the curve of perfect beauty has been found in the sole of a woman's foot!

The discovery came about in a curious way. During the recent public health exhibition Dr. R. H. Gross was put in charge of a contest to determine what woman had the prettiest foot in New York.

In discussing qualifications, he remarked that "the sole of a perfect feminine foot is arched like the neck of a horse." An artist who happened to be standing beside him when the conversation took place, was struck by the picturesqueness of the idea, and went immediately to the Metropolitan Museum to make comparisons for himself and to determine whether the statement was scientifically true.

He plotted the curves of many bare feet and many necks of horses from paintings, and afterward compared photographs of horses and barefoot women. To his amazement he discovered that the statement of Dr. Gross was literally and mathematically true, but he discovered something much more important as well, to wit, that the line in question was the "curve of perfect beauty," which science and art have so often discussed and defined, but which has never been fully understood.

The scientific definition of such a line is "a curve which is always changing its direction, and which can never be measured at any point by a true circle." By looking at the largest picture on this page and following the line which is plotted from the curve of the bare female foot, you can see that it fulfils this definition.

The line is graceful, harmonious, ever changing, and no part of it, taken separately, would fit against the curve of a mathematically true circle.

For some reason, which neither science nor art fully understands, the line of the true circle, when broken into parts, is hard and unbecoming.

It is only when the curve begins to deviate from the circle that it becomes "alive" and "warm" and beautiful.

By looking at the reproduction of the painting of "Lady Godiva," at the right hand lower corner of this page, you will notice that the "perfect curve" occurs twice—once in the sole of the foot, and again in the neck of the horse, in the left-hand background of the picture.

Artists and scientists are agreed that portions of this "perfect curve" are to be found in other parts of the perfect female figure—namely the lines at the ankle, the calf of the leg, the curve of the hip, the curve of the breast, the rounded forearm, and irresistible.

the line of the back at the waist and the nape of the neck. The next nearest approach to the complete "perfect curve" is to be found in the line which follows the to the nape of the neck. But nowhere is it so complete as in the sole of the foot.

The perfect foot, after all, is the natural foot, and the natural foot is never flat. Flat feet are produced by various causes, but science has learned that the chief cause of flat feet is the habit many people have of turning their toes outward when they walk.

Strange as it may seem, the proper way to walk is with the points of the toes turned slightly in—"pigeon-toed," in fact. A very "pigeon-toed" person is just as awkward as one who turns the toes out widely. The advice to walk with the toes turned in should not be carried to extremes. The perfect foot is almost straight-footed, but not quite, and the slight deviation from the straight line should be inward instead of outward.

This is nature's way. All Indians and most savages walk with the toes turned slightly in, and they seldom if ever have fallen arches or flat feet.

Dr. Taylor, writing in the Medical Journal, says that to walk correctly "the toes should be turned slightly in, with the weight resting on the outside of the foot and the knees held straight as they pass the perpendicular to the rear. The whole foot should come down as a unit, and not in sections—neither toes nor the heel should be set down first."

The view that high heels, whether or not the shoes fit properly, produce malformations of the feet, is held by many experts, but their view got a decided jolt at this public health contest, when it was discovered that the prize winners of the perfect foot contest, and practically all of the contestants who had most beautiful and shapely feet, were women who wore high-heeled shoes.

One famous physician who was interested in this contest said:

"If most agitators against high-heeled shoes analyzed their true motives they would find that they want to abolish high heels not because they make a woman's foot uglier, but because they make her foot look more beautiful—because they believe that high heels, like silk stockings and powder and rouge, are inventions of the Devil designed to enhance feminine charm and make it more dangerous and irresistible."

are particularly interesting because a "war" against high heels has been raging for many months past in a number of States in the Union, and in some cases has involved proposed legislation.

A measure was introduced before the Legislature in assembly at Tacoma, Washington, last year, to prohibit the wearing of high heels on the double ground that they were immoral and physically harmful.

Women reformers in Detroit have been agitating for similar legislation in Michigan, and similar bills have been fought over in Utah and Massachusetts.

Statements extravagantly contradictory in their nature have been made by the crusaders on both sides. Dr. R. Kendrick Smith, of Massachusetts, is quoted

"High heels, like anything else, are bad when carried to extremes, but I think that most of the people who shout against them are more puritanical than they are scientific."

This physician's statements are particularly interesting because a "war" against high heels has been raging for many months past in a number of States in the Union, and in some cases has involved proposed legislation.

This Type of Shoe Is Said to Be Harmful, but Is Worn by Many Women Who Have Successfully Preserved the Beauty of Their Feet.

Below, an X-Ray Photo of a Woman's Foot Taken While She Was Wearing a High-Heeled Shoe. Note the Shoe Nails.

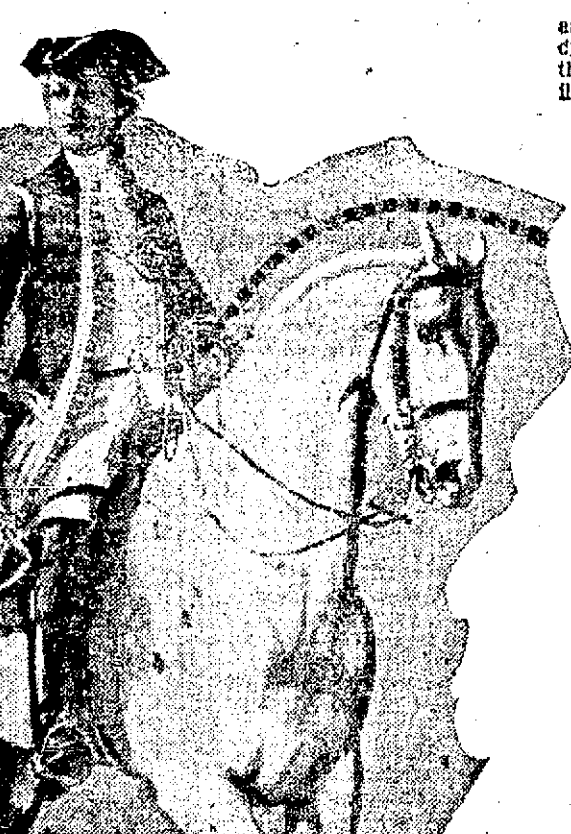

This Reproduction of the Famous Steel Engraving of Lady Godiva Shows the Beautiful Arch of the Foot, and the Neck of a Horse, with Which It Has Been Compared.

Scientists Declare It to Be the Long-Sought "Line of Beauty," Rivalled Only by the Symmetry and Loveliness Found in the Graceful Arch of a Horse's Neck

as saying that the "whole race is slowly dying as the result of high heels," and that "eighty-seven per cent of woman's ills come from wearing high heels and that maternity is vitally affected."

Other physicians declare that the moderately high heel is of negligible harm if harmful at all, and that "more women who have worn low heels have foot troubles than those whose fancy runs to moderately high heels."

The girl who wants to trip through life with the certainty that wherever she goes she is stepping on "the line of perfect beauty" and that her own most lovely curve is in the sole of her foot, may with reasonable esthetic safety wear high heels if she wants to, but she must beware of shoes that do not fit.

It is an absolutely certain fact which no one disputes that tight shoes, too pointed shoes, and shoes which do not conform to the shape of the individual foot, cause bunions, corns, calluses, broken arches and deformed feet.

So the woman who wants to keep the foot of a Diana and preserve the "line of perfect beauty," may apparently wear high or low heels as she pleases, but must wear shoes that do not pinch.

Feet That Won Prizes in the Recent Beauty Contest.

"You'll drink?" Joe asked Bill.

The woodsman's face was grave. "Well, it's against the law of this province to give or receive liquor from Indians," he replied gravely. "I won't drink, tonight."

Pete turned with a scowl. His thought had already flashed to the white blade at his belt. "You're damn particular!" he began.

But Joe shook his head, restraining him. The hour to strike had not yet come. They must enjoy their liquor first and engender fresh courage from its fumes.

"Have a drink," Joe asked Virginia. She didn't like the tone of his voice. He was speaking with calm familiarity and again she expected interference from Harold. Her glance, however, was lingering on the bottle. She saw Bill straighten, ever so little, and behold the first signs of rising anger in the set of his lips.

"No," the girl responded coldly. The others poured themselves mighty drinks—staggering portions, that more than half-enraptured the first of the quints. Then they drew back their heads and drained the cups.

"A little more," everybody stood up. "Harold, getting drunker, finally proposed.

"We're going to drink to Virginia. To my future wife, gentlemen—the lady who's promised me her hand. Look at her! There you breeds—the most beautiful woman that ever came to the North! Drink her down!"

The burning person poured into then throats. Virginia glanced at her pistol. Her face was no longer merely anxious. Bill still sat, helpless and blind, against the wall.

She had not tried to resist about the handling of her name, the insult of their searching eyes upon her beauty.

It seemed to her that she heard a faint, muttered exclamation from Bill, but his face leered at. And in reality the man's thoughts were as busy as never before.

He opened his eyes, struggling for vision. But he could not make out the forms of the men at all, except when they crossed in front of the candles.

The candles themselves were mere points of yellow between his lids. Then men drank another round, emptying the first quart and beginning upon the second.

"You're a pretty little witch," Harold addressed Virginia. "You're hard to kiss, but you know as worth having. What you think about that, Joe? Aren't I telling you the truth?"

Joe's Bill's first impression had been right, after all. Virginia heard the name, too, and her tears increased.

"Joe?" she repeated. "You know him, then?"

"Of course I know Joe. He's an old friend. He's one of the Bill told never to show his face in this part of Clearwater again. But you don't see anything happening to him, do you?"

He waited, hoping the latter was holding his.

"You see he hasn't anything to say," Harold gloated. "I asked you a question, Joe—about Virginia. Didn't I tell the truth?"

"I don't know," Joe replied. "She's pretty enough. But I've never kissed her."

The girl flushed then caught herself with a half-sob. She resolved to make one more appeal.

"Oh, Harold—please—please be careful what you say," she pleaded. "You're drunk now—but don't forget you were a gentleman—once. Don't drink any more. Don't let those Indians drink any more, either."

"A gentleman once?" So you don't think I'm one any more? But Bill there—he's one, isn't he? It seems to me you've been getting kind of bossy around here lately—and the women of we northern men don't behave that way."

"I'm not your woman, thank God—and I ask you to be careful!" "So you're not my woman, eh?" "No, no, no! I never will be!" The girl's eyes were blazing, and she had forgotten her fear in her magnificent wrath.

There ensued a moment of strange and menacing silence. Pete chuckled, already receptive to Joe's thought. Harold turned to stare at him.

Joe put his pipe to his lips, then fumbled at his pocket. He seemed to search in vain. "Will you give me a match, please, lady?" he asked.

The tone was strange, thick and strained, yet Virginia's heart thrilled with hope. Perhaps at these men

he came with amazing accuracy and power.

By means of his acute ear he had located the exact position of every actor in the impending drama.

What was more important, he knew the location of both candles. He dashed both out.

The act had been so swift and unexpected that neither Joe, standing nearest the girl, or Harold across the room could draw their pistols and fire.

Seemingly in a flash the darkness was upon them. Bill was face to face with his enemy in his own dark lair. The advantage of vision on which they had pre-arranged had been in an instant removed.

Harold cursed in the darkness; as if in a continuation of the leap he had made to upset the candles, Bill seized Virginia in his strong arms.

He thrust her to the floor and into the angle between her bunk and the wall, the point that he instinctively realized would be easiest to defend and safest from stray bullets.

Virginia's pistol was in Joe's hand by now, and he shot in Bill's direction. Two spurts of yellow fire broke for an instant the utter gloom. But there was no time for the third shot. He was the nearest of the three attackers, and Bill's outstretched arms seized him. The woodsman's muscles gave a mighty wrench.

His grasp was about Joe's chest at first, but with a great lurch he slung the man's body out far enough so that he could loop his sinewy arms about the man's knees.

Then with a terrific wrench of his mighty shoulders Bill hurled him against the wall.

His neck was broken like a match. The odds were but two to one.

had vanished, too. Some terrible thought had sobered and engrossed him.

Joe spoke then, a single sentence in the vernacular of Harold's ears. With one gesture he indicated Harold, himself and Pete in turn, then pointed to the girl. His face was hideous with eagerness.

Harold started at the words. His degeneracy was complete. He answered with a curse.

"Why not?" he said. "The girl's thrown me over. When I'm through you can do what you want. And crack the skull of that mole with the pick and throw him out in the snow."

he came with amazing accuracy and power.

By means of his acute ear he had located the exact position of every actor in the impending drama.

What was more important, he knew the location of both candles. He dashed both out.

The act had been so swift and unexpected that neither Joe, standing nearest the girl, or Harold across the room could draw their pistols and fire.

Seemingly in a flash the darkness was upon them. Bill was face to face with his enemy in his own dark lair. The advantage of vision on which they had pre-arranged had been in an instant removed.

Harold cursed in the darkness; as if in a continuation of the leap he had made to upset the candles, Bill seized Virginia in his strong arms.

He thrust her to the floor and into the angle between her bunk and the wall, the point that he instinctively realized would be easiest to defend and safest from stray bullets.

Virginia's pistol was in Joe's hand by now, and he shot in Bill's direction. Two spurts of yellow fire broke for an instant the utter gloom. But there was no time for the third shot. He was the nearest of the three attackers, and Bill's outstretched arms seized him. The woodsman's muscles gave a mighty wrench.

His grasp was about Joe's chest at first, but with a great lurch he slung the man's body out far enough so that he could loop his sinewy arms about the man's knees.

Then with a terrific wrench of his mighty shoulders Bill hurled him against the wall.

His neck was broken like a match. The odds were but two to one.

had vanished, too. Some terrible thought had sobered and engrossed him.

Joe spoke then, a single sentence in the vernacular of Harold's ears. With one gesture he indicated Harold, himself and Pete in turn, then pointed to the girl. His face was hideous with eagerness.

Harold started at the words. His degeneracy was complete. He answered with a curse.

"Why not?" he said. "The girl's thrown me over. When I'm through you can do what you want. And crack the skull of that mole with the pick and throw him out in the snow."

The two Indians lurched forward at his words. Bill left his chair in a mighty leap.

LAND OF LOST KITES

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

They never would have got thru had Buskins not handed a policeman a card from the Fairy Queen.

The next place that Buskins took the twins to in the magic apple-tree elevator was the Land of Lost Kites.

Nick moved the funny old from brake fastened to the side of the little rickety wooden car when Buskins told him and up they shot still higher above the hills, trees and valleys, right into the blue, blue sky.

"At last they stopped and Buskins said, 'Here we are! I hope we're in time for the trial.' And he looked at his watch.

"Trial!" exclaimed Nick. "What's that?"

It's when something is to be decided," answered the fairyman. "And the thing to be decided is usually whose fault something is."

"But land alive! That's too hard for you to understand. Come along and I'll tell you what I mean."

"The Fairy Queen is to be here to do the deciding. It's all about the kites who come here. They are always quarreling and always in trouble."

They started down a remarkable road with fields of lovely green on each side.

Here and there were houses where the kite people lived, who had come to make their home in this beautiful sky country.

And trees! There were oodles of trees, my dears, for where else would bird kites stay?

After while they arrived at a village and it was plain to see from the crowd of kites that something unusual was going on.

Buskins and the twins made their way to the courthouse and here the crowd was thickest of all.

They never would have got thru had Buskins not handed a policeman a card from the Fairy Queen.

Instantly the policeman-kite made a path, and the visitors went up the steps and in thru the door. There they could see the Fairy Queen herself sitting in state. Before her were two disheveled kites who looked as if they had been fighting.

WOMAN TOO WEAK TO WALK

Now Works Nine Hours a Day.—
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Strength

Union Village, Vt.—"I was weak and nervous and all run-down. I could not walk across the floor without resting and I had been that way for weeks. I saw your advertisement in the paper and after taking one bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt the good it was doing me and I took seven more in all. Before I finished I was able to work nine hours a day in a steam laundry. I cannot say too much in favor of your medicine. I trust all sick and suffering women will take it. It has been two years since I took it and I am strong and well."

—Mrs. L. A. GUIMANN, Union Village, Vermont.

This is only one of such letters we are continually publishing showing what Lydia E. Pinkham has done for women, and whether you work or not Mrs. Guimann's letter should interest you.

Many women get into a weak, nervous run down condition because of ailments they often have. Such women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the first sign of trouble. Good health is necessary and this splendid medicine will help you to keep it.

TRAINING

Bound Buttonholes.—The neatest and strongest buttonhole is made by facing the slash with one piece of material, turned at either side of the slash to give the appearance of binding. Mark where the buttonhole is to be placed on the face side of the material. Cover the mark with a facing piece cut to extend one-half inch beyond the mark at all points. Mark the buttonhole on the facing piece. Stitch clear side of the mark and square across the ends, running the stitching one-eighth of an inch from the mark at all points. Slash centerway between the stitches to within one-eighth of an inch of the end. From these points slash diagonally to the corners. See Fig. 100. Turn the facing thru the slash onto the wrong side of the material. Cover the ends of the buttonhole, the facing will fall into two small plaits. Stitch across the ends of the buttonhole again, stitching the facing to the triangular portion which was formed by slashing diagonally to the corners. See Fig. 101. Turn under the raw edges of the facing, and tell by hand, or baste it in place, and working from the right side of the garment, stitch around the buttonhole again. See Fig. 102.

Legitimate Realty Investments

Versus "Sure Things"

A "sure thing" an "inside tip," has ruined more men than almost anything else. A splendid man committed suicide in New York not long ago because he lost everything on an "inside tip." He thought he was going to make a big fortune; but, instead of that, the stock he bought went down, his margins were completely wiped out, and he found himself penniless.

PUT YOUR SAVINGS INTO REAL ESTATE

It does not promise to make you rich overnight, but it is the safest investment we know of and one that will pay you a handsome profit.

At present we are offering new strictly modern 6 room homes on a paved street. They have cemented basements, hardwood floors, beautiful baths with gas grates built in, and the price is $4500.00; $500.00 down will handle these; easy monthly payments for the balance. Located on S. Scott-st. between Kibby and Eureka.

Steel Quiet Thruout Week—Foreign Exchange Steady.

NEW YORK—The New York stock market, which began dull and even reactionary this week, closed Saturday with a rather fine upward swing.

In the first few days of the week, the market, particularly the railroads and the auto shares, showed a rallying tendency. The rally, which began on Wednesday, was due to the fact that investors thought that the market was at a low level and that a recovery was in the air. The rally was not a general one, however, and the market was still characterized by a lack of interest in most of the securities.

Steel shares were quiet throughout the week, and foreign exchange was steady. The market was characterized by a lack of interest in most of the securities.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN

suffering from the after effects of Infantile Paralysis usually obtain excellent results. Many have completely recovered after taking Chiropractic adjustments.

SPINAL DEFECT

the result of babyhood falls or accidents, forcing out of alignment one or more of the spinal segments thus throwing the entire spinal column out of alignment. Chiropractic adjustments successfully correct such defects, especially so in children of young people.

MALNUTRITION

When Malnutrition occurs it is due to obstructed or impinged nerves that control the glands and organs of digestion. 95% of obstructed nerve energy is due to spinal defects such as spinal curvature, subluxation and trauma.
